Chip Rogers named Townsgman publisher

Irving E. (Chip) Rogers III, general manager of The Eagle-Tribune, has been named publisher of the Andover Townsgman.

Mr. Rogers, 35, of 9 Spring Grove Road, succeeds his father, Irving E. Rogers Jr., who announced the appointment and who had headed the Townsgman for 14 years.

"In the past few years, I have had less and less involvement in the operations of the Townsgman and my son has had more and more involvement. It is appropriate that he take over," said Mr.

Rogers Jr., who remains publisher of The Tribune and Derry, N.H., News.

The Townsgman has been published weekly since 1887 and has a circulation of more than 8,000, making it the most widely read newspaper in Andover. Its offices are at 33 Chestnut St. in downtown Andover.

The new publisher's duties will be in addition to his role as general manager of The Eagle-Tribune. He also is vice president and assistant treasurer of The Eagle-Tribune Publishing Co., which publishes The Eagle-Tribune, the Andover Townsgman, and the Derry News of Derry, N.H., and operates Eagle Offset. He joined The Eagle-Tribune staff in 1983.

Frothingham update

If you were on the 350th anniversary celebration's tour of houses and gardens last Saturday, you might have seen Patty Frothingham volunteering in one of the houses on the tour. Patty is the wife of David Frothingham, former headmaster of Pike School.

Patty had been home from Florida just four days but was lined up to volunteer for the tour months ago. She and David are just finishing up two years living in Tampa, Fla., where he was interim headmaster of St. Mary's Episcopal Day School (pre-K-grade 8) for at first one year, which was extended to two. Actually, the school asked David to stay, but the Frothinghams don't want to live permanently in Florida. "We're New Englanders," she said this week.

Now they're off to a year in Morristown, N.J., where he will be interim headmaster of the Peck School (K-8) for a year. Patty says David is enjoying the interim-headmaster business. In Morristown, they will live in the school's headmaster's house.

In the meantime, she is here in their Andover house for the summer, playing golf and seeing friends. David is already working in New Jersey, but he's home weekends. Also living in the Andover house are the Frothingham sons, Jonathan, who is working at REI outdoor outfitters in Reading, and Chris, who works at Holy Family Hospital while applying to medical school. Son Cameron will be a junior at Colby College in the fall and son Toby and daughter-in-law Didi bought a condo in North Andover. Toby works for Fidelity and Didi works in the financial end of a home for unwed mothers. So that's the Frothingham update for this summer. Stay tuned.

Stella's driving again

If you were one of the people who saw Stella Koravos driving in downtown Andover recently with an instructor from Andover Auto School, your eyes were not deceiving you. Stella, who with her husband, Tom, owned Ford's coffee shop on Main Street for years until they closed it two years ago, took two driving lessons recently.

"It was the best $50 I've ever spent on Stella," said Stella, who turned 77 June 11.

Stella had her right hip replaced about a year and a half ago. She hadn't been driving before that operation because her right hip was too sore to work well driving, she said.

"My driving instructor was Carol, and I loved her," said Stella. "I wanted the confidence to drive around town to the cleaners, to Market Basket."

Tom Koravos works at the Market Basket in Shawsheen, Stella said. She said there have been rumors they are selling their Elm Street house. "No, we're not, we love Andover," she said.

The Koravoses did buy a condo in Naples, Fla. "But we don't spend too much time there," she said. "My grandson's getting married in November. We don't want to go anywhere."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Forum on train whistles is Monday

In response to residents' concerns about plans to overturn local bans on train whistles, U.S. Rep. Marty Meehan has scheduled a public forum with federal transportation officials for Monday, June 24, at 7:30 p.m. at Acton Town Hall, 472 Main St. (Route 27).

The forum on the Swift Rail Development Act of 1994 will feature Grady Cothen, deputy associate administrator for safety standards, and Mark McKeon, regional administrator, both of the Federal Railroad Administration; and John Hitz, chief of the accident prevention division of the Volpe Transportation Systems Center; and other transportation officials.

A provision of the Swift Rail Development Act of 1994 requires the sounding of train whistles at many crossings unless local communities obtain federal exemptions. It was prompted, in part, by a six-year federal study that concluded that accidents are 84 percent more likely to occur at crossings where whistles are not sounded.

In response to residents' complaints about the regular sounding of the 115-decibel train whistles, 88 Massachusetts communities, including Andover, have passed - and the state has approved - local whistle bans. Although the new federal law requires these local ordinances to be overturned by November 1996, the Railroad Administration has delayed action to allow local communities to respond to the pending regulations.

Residents at the forum will have an opportunity to speak and submit written testimony, which will be considered by the Railroad Administration in formulating the federal regulations. Senators Robert Durand, John O'Brien and David Magnani, Representatives Pamela Resor and John Stefanini; and Acton Selectman Nancy Tavernier are expected to offer testimony.

Growth forum is tonight at 7:30

Selectmen and members of the Planning Board will host a public forum on growth today, Thursday, 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Hall Library. Members of the School Committee as well as other board members and the public are invited and encouraged to attend.

The forum will be televised live on cable TV.

Fans available for senior citizens

The Andover Council on Aging is sponsoring a new "Fan Club" program during June, July and August. This free program is open to Andover seniors who need a fan for the summer months.

The Council on Aging is also looking for fan donations for this program. All donations will be returned at the end of summer. For more information, call Niki D'Esopo, outreach coordinator, at 623-8321.

Rep. Meehan to meet with seniors Friday

U.S. Rep. Marty Meehan will meet with Greater Lawrence seniors Friday, June 21, at 9:30 a.m. at the Andover Senior Center to discuss Medicare and other issues of concern to older Americans. The public is welcome.

Library open Saturdays for summer

Memorial Hall Library will be open Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. through the summer for the second year in a row. In the past, the library was closed weekends during the summer. This summer the library will be open all Saturdays except July 6 and Aug. 31.

Sen. O'Brien to hold hours here June 24, 27

State Senator John D. O'Brien, D-Andover, will hold office hours in Andover at the following locations: Andover Senior Center, 36 Bartlet St., Thursday, June 27, from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m., and at Memorial Hall Library, Monday, June 24, from 6 to 7 p.m.

Royal Ballet dancer

David Moroni, staged a presentation of Don Quixote to celebrate its 25th anniversary. The school earned international recognition in 1980 when former students Evelyn Hart and the late David Peregrine won awards at world ballet competitions in Varna, Bulgaria and in Japan.

Joseph Gillam, who also performed in Romeo & Juliet with the Royal Winnipeg Ballet Company this spring, is the 1996 recipient of an award named in Peregrine's memory.

The graduate of Phillips Academy and University of Washington, Seattle, is now training at the American Dance Festival at Duke University.

Swinging retirement

Former Andover building inspector Sam DeSalvo was spotted in town Tuesday morning. Mr. DeSalvo, who retired in 1993, said he was up from his home in Ogunquit, Maine, to have some work done on his pickup truck by Ron Abraham at Elm Street Garage, on Lupine Road. Mr. DeSalvo and his wife, Elaine, operate The Bayberry gift shop and rent out three efficiency apartments at their home on Shore Road in Ogunquit. His wife actually runs the gift shop and Mr. DeSalvo is in charge of "groundskeeping and maintenance," he said.

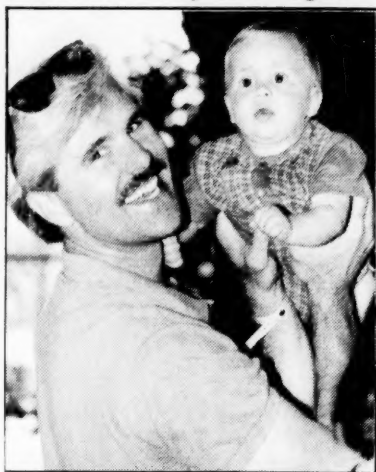

Sam DeSalvo

Mr. DeSalvo said he was sad to learn he will miss playing in the Henry Wyatt golf tournament with town employees tomorrow, Friday, at Rolling Green Golf Course on Lowell Street. "I didn't really want to miss that," Mr. DeSalvo said.

But he is scheduled to play in a golf tournament on Cape Cod tomorrow, and that tourney is a fund raiser for a $1,000 scholarship in his name given by the Massachusetts Building Inspector's Association. (Ah! Retirement can be so hectic.)

Mr. DeSalvo will be back in town for another Building Inspectors Assoc. tournament at Andover Country Club Aug. 5.

Celebration baby

Ms. Pappas' first two pregnancies were ectopic, and she had to have surgery both times. So they turned to the fertility clinic. "They do great work," Ms. Pappas said.

Actually, just before she was ready to take fertility drugs, Ms. Pappas became pregnant. And the rest, is, well, it's Walter.

"I've learned a lot," she said. "It taught me a lot of what other people's situations are."

Ms. Pappas is assistant program director of an alternative school for special-needs kids ages 12-19, Farr Academy in Cambridge. Dr. Pappas is an acupuncturist who practices in Andover.

Raised from the dead

Don Mathias had watched one of the great loves of his life sit motionless for three years and he could take no more. There was only one thing he could do.

"I pumped up the tires," he said with great satisfaction.

Mr. Mathias was one of several car buffs featured in a June 1, 1995, Townsmen article about people attached to their old, sometimes dilapidated, vehicles. Although his 1965 Dodge Coronet convertible sat on four deflated tires and didn't run anymore, Mr. Mathias said he couldn't bear the thought of getting rid of it.

"There's a lot of memories," he said at the time. "I like chrome and steel and the feel of a good car. Like a Viking, I'll be buried in it."

Today, Mr. Mathias is concentrating more on raising the car from the dead.

"I didn't want it sitting there anymore. I made a decision, either I'm going to have it restored or I'm going to sell it to someone who will fix it," he said. "I don't know if it will be done this summer but in the next six to eight months I hope to have it looking like it did 30 years ago."

Mr. Mathias bought the car July 1, 1965 and drove it 130 miles every week to visit his girlfriend, Claudia, who was going to another college. On July 1, 1967, exactly two years after he bought the car, Don and Claudia were married.

"And I don't want to get rid of either of them," said Mr. Mathias.

Mr. Mathias drove his Dodge convertible on his honeymoon and a few years later used it to pick up his wife and first born from the hospital.

Dogs can be a problem to mail carriers

By Eric Danis

Neither rain, sleet, snow, nor hail can keep mail carriers from delivering the mail.

While these weather conditions may not halt Andover's mail carriers, a stray dog can.

Andover Postmaster George Selfridge says, "If the carrier feels that [a] dog could be a problem, he's told to avoid that dog."

This is National Dog Bite Prevention Week, and Mr. Selfridge is using it "to inform everyone of the problems we have with dog bites."

Although Mr. Selfridge said only two Andover postal carriers have been bitten in the past year, canines still impeded mail delivery. "When we have a dog situation at a house it generally affects more than one house," since a menacing, unleashed dog can prevent a mail carrier from reaching several houses on a block, according to Mr. Selfridge.

Seven-year Andover postal carrier Veronica Johnson can attest to that, after receiving a bite on her ankle, courtesy of a Springer

Spaniel last July. "I had walked past it a lot of times, but he was sleeping and I guess I woke him up," she said. Ms. Johnson did not require stitches for

"I had walked past it a lot of times, but he was sleeping and I guess I woke him up," she said. Ms. Johnson did not require stitches for this "deep" gash but she did need a tetanus shot.

Mail carriers aren't the only ones who fall prey to aggressive dogs, as

Mail carriers picket outside Old Town Hall

By Eric M. Danis

Six mail carriers conducted an "informational picket" outside of the post office on Main Street yesterday, Wednesday, at 9:30 a.m.

The carriers were part of a nationwide picket that was organized by the National Association of Letter Carriers. Yesterday's strike was organized by the NALC Branch 25. Branch 25 is one of approximately 3,000 unions from across the nation that had been urged to picket.

The picket was designed to reverse postal policies that the NALC believes are "endangering quality mail delivery to homes and businesses."

Robert Keller, the president of the NALC Branch 25, said that the union's goal is to save the union rather than harming it.

Paul Desmond, a Winchester mail carrier and one of the six picketers in front of Old Town Hall Wednesday, said, "There's a lot of automation that [the letter carriers] aren't allowed to have input in."

The NALC says management is "implementing a much-needed automation program in ways that could soon cause serious disruption of the mail service."

Mr. Desmond also explained that the mail carriers are upset about the dissolution of a program called Employee Involvement.

This program, instituted in 1982, was a forum for mail carriers to sit with management and share their input. This program was eliminated in May. The NALC says that managements decisions have "sunk employee morale to an all-time low."

Andover was not the only area community targeted for informational picketing, as Lowell, Reading and Concord also were chosen. Mr.

Desmond believes that Andover was one of the chosen towns because its post office on Main Street "is at a visible

He also said he hopes people would see the picket and write to their local postman, selectman, or congressman in support of the mail carriers. NALC President Sombrotto hopes that the picketing will "encourage the public to insist that their local postmasters maintain the highest level of service to the public."

Rotary honors caring people

By Mark Spencer

The Rotary Club of Andover has initiated a program that highlights the work of citizens who have worked hard to enhance the quality of life in town. The program, Citizens Who Care, selected 10 individuals who, based on solicitations of what the Rotary calls "prominent people" in the community, contributed above and beyond what their daily job required them to do. The recipients of this year's selection are Fred Cummings, Fred Fitzgerald, Enzo Fossella, Norma Gammon, Hooks Johnston, Larry Larsen, Calvin Mutti and Andover High School students Anna Kelleher, Jeffrey Scaia and Danielle Teves.

Fred Cummings, senior manager for the Andover Companies, was chosen for his work with the Boy Scouts, involvement in Christ Church and serving on the Industry and Business Committee for the 350th Anniversary Celebration.

Fred Fitzgerald's spearheading of the Andover Fund for Education and his 13 years on the Finance Committee earned him recognition. He has also served on the School Committee.

Enzo Fossella, owner of Enzo of Andover clothing store, founded the Service Club of Andover and has been past president of the Service Club, Andover Chamber of Commerce, Lawrence Rotary Club and Lions Club.

Norma Gammon, community services librarian at Memorial Hall Library, is chairwoman of Andover's 350th anniversary celebration. She also served two terms on the Board of Selectmen and presided over the Andover Historical Society.

Hooks Johnston, vice president of manufacturing for the endoscopy division of Smith-Nephew, has chaired the Planning Board, moderated at South Church, co-chaired the mentoring program of the Service Club and chaired the Industry Committee.

Larry Larsen, a counselor of children and teens, was selected for formerly chairing the Board of Selectmen and chairing "Andover at 400." He served on the Council on Community Living, presided over the Citizen's League for Adult Special services and was the first president of Fidelity House.

Calvin Mutti, pastor of South Church, hosted the ecumenical service before the inaugural concert of the 350th celebration in January, and he oversaw the restoration of the South Meeting House. He serves on the Andover clergy board, and has overseen a church budget of which 30 percent goes to causes outside the church.

The Andover High School students were selected by a committee of teachers headed by Principal Ellen Parker. Anna Kelleher, a senior, was the student director of Community Service, coordinated the school's tutoring program and led S.O.S., a program that welcomes new students to the High School. Jeff Scaia directed Andover High's Community Service program, coordinated volunteers for Habitat for Humanity and co-directed the 24-Hour Relay Challenge. Senior Danielle Teves coordinated the Aware program that assists developmentally challenged students and directed Hunger Week, a project about world hunger.

Citizens Who Care was modeled loosely after a similar project initiated by the Rotary Club of Renton, Wash., that identified young people who served as role models for their peers. The Andover version will showcase the hard work of these people by exhibiting their portraits and biographies in a display that will most likely circulate through several prominent buildings uptown. The Rotary Club intends to make the exhibit an evolving institution. Each year the display will be updated. The exhibit is expected to be completed by early September.

Ted Gill

Ted Gill, a senior partner with MBG Associates of Andover, recently delivered a seminar entitled "The Art of Hiring Smart" to approximately 100 small business owners from New England. Immediately upon conclusion of his seminar, Mr. Gill appeared live on WBNW 590 AM's "Money Works" program hosted by John Napolitano.

MBG Associates Inc. is a management consulting firm that works with businesses, government agencies and non-profit organizations to improve their employee selection process.

Mr. Gill is a member of Northeast Human Resources Association, Smaller Business Association of New England, Merrimack Valley Chamber of Commerce and Human Resources Forum of the New Hampshire High Technology Council.

Daniel Taylor, Stephen Mackey, Albert Fischer and Matthew Cox

Several residents of Andover have been selected to serve on staff at the 1996 annual Civil Air Patrol-United States Air Force Auxiliary training encampment at Otis Air Force base in Falmouth in August. Cadet Second Lieutenant Daniel Taylor of 4 Elysian Drive and Cadet Second Lieutenant Stephen Mackey were selected as flight commanders responsible for command and training within their respective flights, with about 15 corps member per flight.

Cadet Master Sergeant Albert

Fischer of 700 Middleton Road and Cadet Staff Sergeant Matthew Cox of 363 Salem St. were selected as flight sergeants to assist the flight commander with the command and training of the individual flights.

The cadets are assigned to the Essex County Composite Squadron, Lawrence Airport. This unit provided the highest number of personnel that were selected for the encampment staff of 31 squadrons from Massachusetts and New Hampshire that had personnel considered.

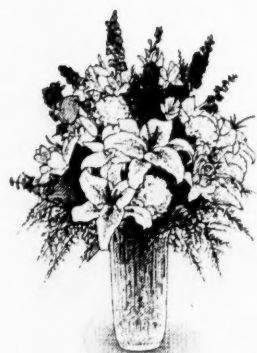

The Civil Air Patrol Summer Encampment is an opportunity for cadets to train with officers, learn leadership and aerospace doctrines, experience the military lifestyle, fly on military aircraft orientations and develop teamwork and interpersonal skills while performing challenging tasks presented throughout the intensive, eight-day training program.

Michael Keavany

Genetics Institute Inc., which has offices at 1 Burt Road, has hired Michael Keavany as director of sales to orchestrate the selling of its products in North America. His appointment represents a major step as the company moves toward its goal of marketing proprietary products now in the final stages of clinical evaluation, including Factor IX for the treatment of hemophilia B.

Mr. Keavany spent 15 years in sales at Zeneca Pharmaceuticals, which deals in the commercialization of products to treat cancer. Most recently he served as director of customer operations at Stuart Disease Management Service.

United Way elects Faulkner chairman

Thomas R. Faulkner, president of Haverhill Co-operative Bank, was elected 1996 chairman of the United Way of Merrimack Valley board of directors at the organization's recent annual meeting at Andover Country Club. Outgoing chairman of the board, Cosmo Camelio, CEO of Chelmsford's Freudenberg Nonwovens, and fund distribution chairman, Joseph Casey, CFO of Andover Bank, were recognized for their efforts last year.

Some 300 supporters attended the luncheon event. Other elected officers included Marsha McDonough, superintendent of Greater Lawrence Technical School, first vice chairwoman; Carole A. Cowan, president of Middlesex Community College, second vice chairwoman; Richard Hart Harrington of Gordon, Harrington & Osborn, treasurer; Paul A. Miller, CEO of Lawrence Savings Bank, assistant treasurer; and Joseph F. Casey, CFO of Andover Bank, secretary.

The meeting also launched the organization's silver anniversary. Twenty-five years ago, the United Funds of Lawrence, Lowell and Haverhill merged to form a single United Way organization, then called the Merrimack Valley United Fund. In honor of its 25th birthday, the organization published "A Retrospective," a booklet chronicling its history.

The meeting also honored seven "Community Heroes" who carried the Olympic Torch last weekend. "Individuals were selected based upon their outstanding community volunteerism," said Kenneth A. Gallant, president of the United Way of Merrimack Valley. Honored heroes included Thomas Bentley of Haverhill, John Kinky of North Andover, Jonathan Samel of Andover, Justin Wagner of Windham, N.H., Robert Wyocki of Plaistow, N.H., Phyllis King of Chelmsford and Margo Sargent Tisdale of Lowell.

Niki Tsongas of Lowell was recognized as this year's general campaign chairwoman. Under her direction, five area teams covering Greater Lawrence, Greater Haverhill, Greater Newburyport, southern New Hampshire and Greater Lowell will lead this year's fund drive. Last year, United Way of Merrimack Valley raised $5.5 million and allocated funds to 57 health and agencies.

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

GREATER FLEXIBILITY

If your employer makes a plan known as a "flexible spending arrangement" (FSA) available, you may want to give it careful consideration. The FSA is designed to help working parents with children in day care, as well as any employee who expects to be saddled with medical expenses that will not be fully reimbursable by the firm's health plan. Employees who sign up for FSA can designate a specific amount of their salaries to be deposited in either a health care or a dependent care account. The beauty of an FSA rests with the fact that any earnings put into these accounts are not subject to income tax or Social Security tax. Thus, the plan gives employees the opportunity to pay medical bills or day care expenses with tax-free dollars. Many times an FSA is part of a larger benefit called a Section 125 plan. Benefits such as health insurance, group long term disability plans and 401(K) plans can be part of this. If you are a business owner or employee and have questions about whether or not such programs are appropriate for you, please call us today.

Since 1901, BAYSTATE FINANCIAL SERVICES has been providing invaluable investment counseling services, pension and retirement planning services, life insurance and estate planning services, group benefits for businesses of all sizes, and fee-based financial planning services. Our specialists help you get the most from your money. You get the attention and service you expect. Please call us at 475-9212 to schedule an appointment. We are located at 10 Essex Street. We also have an office at 100 N. Washington St. in Boston, (617) 523-4500.

HINT: Employees must decide in advance how much of their salaries will be set aside in FSAs, and stand to forfeit any funds remaining in their accounts at the end of the year.

Andover Police Officer Charles Heseltine and his wife, Lori, look pleased with his Robert T. Black Memorial award, given to the officer of the year. Given during last Friday's Police-men's Ball at the Andover Marriott, the award is named for the only Andover police officer ever killed while on duty. Officer Robert Black was shot and fatally wounded the night of Nov. 27, 1925, in Elm Square. The murder was never solved. Robert Black's niece and her husband, Linda and Thomas Jenkins of Ipswich, attended Friday's award ceremonies. Officer Heseltine's fellow officers voted to give the award to him. More than 300 people attended the ball. Also recognized that night were Officer Richard Aumais, who retired from the department after 37 years; and Detective Dave Grant, who retired after 28 years.

Randy Hanson, town clerk, said a review of town meeting minutes would reveal if the town ever followed that procedure. But she said her understanding is that the town charter gave selectmen that authority, so acting on state statute was not necessary.

Tom Urbelis, town counsel, said this week he has not been asked by the town for an opinion on what gives selectmen such authority, so he has not looked into it and could not comment on it.

Two students from Andover received bachelor of arts degrees from Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., at its 151st commencement ceremony on May 13. They are James B. Damon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn J. Damon, and Nathalie C. Lemaitre, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul N. Lemaitre.

UND Aerospace sophomore Marcel Faulring of Andover has received his flight instructor pilot certificate with an instrument rating from UND Aerospace at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, N.D.

"To earn his flight instructor certificate with an instrument rating, Marcel successfully completed all the academic and flight lab requirements as established by the Federal Aviation Administration and the university," said UND Aerospace Dean John Odegard. "Each certificate and rating is a challenge to attain at the University of North Dakota, and Marcel should be commended for his achievements."

Stephanie Givens of Andover was invited to join Wake Forest University's chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, a national academic honor society established in 1776. The senior is an education major.

Phi Beta Kappa extended an invitation to seniors in the top 8 percent of their class and juniors in the top 2 percent of their class.

Technology crosses the threshold at WMS

By Cathryn Delude

It's not always quiet in the new Mac Lab at West Middle School. One afternoon two girls were singing Yankee Doodle while a third accompanied them on the flute. They were recording songs of the Civil War era into a multimedia HyperStack program for Erin Manship's eighth-grade social studies class. Teams of students worked on different aspects of the era - battles, clothing, farming, politics, etc. Ms. Manship then linked these pieces together into one presentation, which students view on a monitor in the classroom.

At other times, the lab is filled with sounds of Spanish, as students record an introduction to their family for Leela Scanlon's Spanish class. They scan photos of their family members to include in this audio-visual family tree. Sheila Harrington's sixth-grade classes participated in a nationwide Internet program called Journey North. Students went into the "field" to observe signs of spring and then reported them on-line to students around the country. While they were observing robins, insects and crocus in the Northeast, others were reporting the arrival of humpback whales, seals and cactus flowers.

In their first year with the new technology, teachers have found a number of uses for it. Students in social studies have the world at their fingertips with MacGlobe, 3-D Atlas, Grolier's Multimedia Encyclopedia, and laser discs that accompany the text books. Science classes also use laser discs, as well as HyperStudio and test programs. English classes use word-processing software for their compositions.

In spite of the enthusiasm for the new technology, there is one big drawback - one Mac Lab is not enough for a school with 640 students. Most of the day is devoted to the technology classes, which are part of the integrated arts program. Only two of the three grades can receive the six-week technology unit in any given year. Sixth- and eighth-graders took it this year (while seventh-graders were chomping at the bit).

Now that teachers are discovering more ways to integrate technology with their curriculums, the lab is often booked when they would like their classes to use it. Some teachers have suggested that if the school were networked (with classroom computers connected to the main lab), programs could be used simultaneously, with less pressure on the lab schedule.

Regardless of these limitations, the new technology has clearly taken root at the middle school, giving teachers and students a new, exciting dimension to education.

actualized professors. I am extremely honored to be named in the same breath as Dr. William Haskell and to walk in his shoes and continue the work..." Dr. Cannon, an associate professor of psychology at UMass Lowell, is the author of two books and several articles. She lives in Andover with her husband and three children.

Catherine Elizabeth Cannon, daughter of Raymond J. and Joan B. Cannon of Andover, was inducted into the Cum Laude Society at Brooks School on April 24.

Catherine E. Cannon

Maria C. Ward, president of the chapter, presented the award. Ms. Cannon will attend Saint Mary's College in Notre Dame, Ind., in the fall.

Kimberly G. Hall, daughter of Jeffrey L. and Dianne Hall of Andover, graduated cum laude from Salem State College with a bachelor's degree in educational studies. She will pursue a career in early childhood education.

Christopher O'Connell, son of Richard and Donna O'Connell of Clark Road, received an associate in arts degree from Dean College in Franklin.

Christopher O'Connell

The 1994 Andover High School graduate has been accepted to Berklee College of Music in Boston, where he will begin work on his bachelor's degree in September. His major field of study will be in percussion performance.

Karen Kirley of Andover has been awarded a commendation by the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America/New England Chapter in its annual scholarship essay contest. The scholarship award was established to recognize a graduating senior who has achieved his or her personal best in spite of significant asthma or allergies.

Ms. Kirley has a severe allergy to peanuts and other legumes, which can result in a potentially fatal allergic shock reaction if even a speck of the ingredient is ingested. Food servers often don't understand how important it is to give a precise answer when a food-allergic person asks if there is any of the allergenic ingredient in the food being served.

Ms. Kirley was among the finalists selected from 250 applicants from all over New England. The graduating senior day student at Phillips Academy was an honors student, captain of the varsity diving team, ran with the cross-country team, played softball, was active with the school theater and newspaper and volunteered at ARC, a program for developmentally challenged people.

Her achievements enable others to understand that asthma and allergy symptoms are controllable and preventable, organizers said. "She is an excellent role model for other teens because she has not limited her activities and accomplishments despite a chronic illness," they said.

Robert O. Kwon of Andover has been awarded the Rensselaer Medal from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. Rensselaer has awarded the Rensselaer Medal since 1916 to high school juniors chosen by their schools as the top students in science and mathematics.

Rebecca Lee Malakoff, a biological sciences major at Smith College in Northampton, has been elected an associate member of Sigma Xi, a national honorary organization recognizing excellence in science.

Maureen Morrow of Andover received a bachelor of arts degree at May 11 commencement ceremonies at Notre Dame College.

William James Adams, son of Carol Couch-Adams and John L. Adams of Andover graduated May 25 from Suffield Academy in Suffield, Conn.

Charles Bobek of Andover received an MBA degree from Rivier College School of Graduate Studies at May 11 commencement on the college athletic fields.

*Rates are as of 4/01/96, and are subject to change without notice. Available to qualified home owners. The maximum loan amount is based upon a calculation which takes into consideration all loans secured by your home, which cannot exceed 80% of the appraised value of your home. Fixed Rate Credit Line: Minimum check amount $250. Minimum credit line $10,000; maximum credit line is $150,000. The Annual Percentage Rate (APR) is a fixed rate of 8.99%. This is for a 10-year loan, with an initial 5-year draw period, and subsequent 5-year repayment schedule. Payments of interest only are required during the draw period. For example, a 10-year loan of $10,000 would be repayable in 120 monthly installments, the first 60 monthly installments (interest only) of $74.70 and the remaining 60 monthly installments (principal and interest) of $243.02. Home Equity Loans: Minimum loan amount $10,000; maximum amount $150,000. Using a $10,000 loan as an example: a 60-month loan with a fixed APR of 8.50% would be repayable in 60 monthly installments of $205.17; a 120-month loan with a fixed APR of 8.99% would be repayable in 120 monthly installments of $126.62; a 180-month loan with a fixed APR of 9.99% would be repayable in 180 monthly installments of $107.40.

The Andover Bike Classic Historical Bike Tour begins at 10 a.m. this Saturday, June 22, at South Church. Celebrating Andover's 350th anniversary, this self-paced bicycle tour will follow the scenic backroads of Andover. Tour guides at many landmarks along the route will describe the significance of the various historic sites. The 10-mile route will be marked with arrows and signs. Ride marshals will assist with directions and other technical problems. Riders of all ages may ride from site to site at their own pace, individually or in groups; however, children under the age of 12 years must be accompanied by a riding adult for the duration of the tour. Maps and information will be provided to all at the starting point. Refreshments will be provided along the route as well as at the finish at South Church. A strawberry festival is planned along the route. T-shirts will be provided for the first 500 entrants. "The tour should be a fun event for the entire family as well as a learning experience for all," said organizer Bill Pennington of Clark Road. Races are planned for Sunday, June 23. Getting ready for the Andover Bike Classic Weekend are, from left: Melissa, Greg, Brooke and Bill Pennington of Andover; (in front) John Kovacs of Andover; Steve Anthony of North Andover; John Tirrell of Melrose; and Barry Greenberg of Stoneham.

Celebrate Andover's 350th at an evening with the Boston Pops

Tickets for the Boston Pops concert go on sale this Saturday, June 22, at Old Town Hall, 20 Main St., from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Ticket prices are $20, $30 and $40 each, and will be available up to the day of the event.

The concert will be held at Merrimack College's Volpe Center Saturday, Sept. 21, from 7 to 9 p.m., with a 15- or 20-minute intermission.

Refreshments will be available during intermission.

Old record albums needed for book sale

The Andover Historical Society will open its three-day annual book sale next Thursday, June 27, at 10 a.m. Donations of record albums are requested, along with books, to sell at this major fundraiser for Andover's historical museum and research center.

"Proceeds from the event enable us to continue our education programs," organizers said. "Books and albums can be dropped off anytime on the society's back porch at 97 Main st." Drive down the alley next to Andover Video and park on the back yard.

For more information, call 475-2236.

Calling all artists

Local artists are invited to participate in the "Original Expressions" art auction sponsored by the American Cancer Society Sunday, Aug. 25, from 1-4 p.m. at the Essex Art Center in Lawrence. The money raised will benefit area programs and educational projects.

The auction will represent a variety of artwork, including paintings, sculpture, pottery, photography, etc. Call Kerry Ellen Enright at the American Cancer Society Northeast region office at 988-3600 for information.

July 22 golf tournament benefits Deana's Fund

Deana's Fund, a not-for-profit agency established in 1994 to prevent dating violence and domestic violence, will hold its third annual golf tournament Monday, July 22, at Andover Country Club. Tee-time is at 1:30 p.m. The $125 fee per golfer includes 18 holes of golf, lunch, dinner, reception and memorabilia.

Deana's Fund was established after the death of Deana Brisbois, a young woman from Topsfield who was a victim of an abusive dating relationship. All proceeds from this event will help Deana's Fund stop the abuse before it happens through youth education and prevention programs.

For more information, call Alison Reynolds at (617) 821-1087.

Mass. Audubon recognizes volunteers

Massachusetts Audubon Society's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary in Topsfield recognized 41 volunteers for long-term service at its recent annual volunteer recognition event.

Lauren Martin of Andover was honored for more than 100 hours of service. She volunteered with the Ipswich River Day Camp last summer.

Volunteers at Ipswich River assist with the operation of the sanctuary in a variety of ways, including office reception, clerical work, trail patrolling, nest-box monitoring, butterfly survey, vernal pool study, library cataloging, grounds maintenance, newsletter mailings, publicity, creating seasonal displays for resource center bulletin boards, and preparing program materials.

Organizers said that volunteers are essential contributors to the success of the sanctuary's annual special events, such as the Downeast Bean Bake, Halloween, birdseed-pickup day, Big Woods hike, maple-sugaring and Birds and Breakfast.

For more information on volunteer opportunities, call volunteer coordinator Susan Baeslack at (508) 887-9264.

Girl Scout volunteer recognized for 30 years of service

Susan DeMoulas of Andover was recognized for 30 years of service to Girl Scouting at a recent annual meeting of Spar and Spindle Girl Scout Council.

According to organizers, "Membership of 25 years and more represent a strong commitment to the Girl Scout movement. The hours represent dedication and service, which help make the organization viable. Spar and Spindle Girl Scout Council is honored to celebrate the accomplishment and service of this special individual."

Celebrating the 350th

Ballardvale United Church will host an old-fashioned Strawberry Festival with old-fashioned prices this Saturday, June 22, from noon to 3 p.m. There will be continuous viewing of the video Andover, A Classic New England Town during the serving of hand-picked strawberries and home-made shortcake.

On behalf of the Town of Andover, Board of Health, along with Healthy Communities Tobacco Awareness, we would like to extend our thanks to members of the community for supporting our efforts in restricting youth access, educational awareness, restaurant tobacco policies, and the overall Health of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

TREATING INJURED RUNNERS

Anyone who doubts chiropractic's effectiveness in preventing and treating running injuries need only take a look at how many Olympic track athletes are accompanied by chiropractors this summer in Atlanta. Because chiropractors are well versed in musculoskeletal injuries, they are knee injuries that quite familiar with the problems that afflict runners. Chief among these are knee injuries that are usually mechanical in nature. Chiropractors assess everything from the wear on a runner's shoes to leg-length discrepancies when seeking to uncover the source of these problems and correct them. When the common problem of plantar fasciitis (acute pain in the middle and rear of the heel arises), the chiropractor is likely to undertake an imagery study to determine if tendons have calcified to cause heel spurs. Runners may also turn to chiropractic for treatment of Achilles tendinitis (abnormal pronation), sciatica, stress fractures, and iliotibial band syndrome.

Sport injuries nearly always jar and misalign the spinal column. In fact, almost all trauma to the body affects the spinal column. At DeLORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, we are trained and qualified in the care of the spine. We will only accept you as a patient if we can help you. Many well known sports figures and entertainers use chiropractic on a regular basis. We're located at 15 Central Street. Chiropractic doesn't cost - it pays. PH: 475-5042.

P.S. The origin of inflammation of the iliotibial band is usually in the pelvis.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

SAVING GRACE

People entering their later years should not automatically assume that losing their teeth comes with the territory. In the past, the elderly had come to think that dentures were as inevitable as retirement; however, more aggressive preventive and restorative dentistry in recent years has enabled older Americans to keep their teeth longer. The fact is that the most recent survey indicates that only 10 percent of people between the ages of 10 and 74 are totally toothless, compared to 15 percent only 20 years before. As for the remaining 90 percent, they have retained, on average, 23.5 of their teeth. And, nearly one-third of all adults were found to keep all 28 of their teeth (not including wisdom teeth). All of this is not to say that we can afford to let our attention down. More than 40 percent of adults who have their teeth also have at least one tooth or tooth space in need of treatment. Quick attention to these matters saves teeth.

If one or more of your teeth have been lost to damage or decay, prompt attention and repair will prevent bigger and more painful problems later on. Visit your dentist on a regular basis and practice good home oral hygiene. It will pay off in the long run. Remember, there is little the dentist can do to overcome that a patient will not do. We offer complete family dentistry here at 296 Lowell Street, Rt. 133, with easy access off Rt. 93. Office hours are Mon. & Thurs. 10-8, Tues. & Fri. 8-6, and by appointment, but we see emergency cases as quickly as possible. PH: 475-2431. P.S. It is always preferable to save a tooth whenever possible.

OBITUARIES

Mary Elizabeth Lengemann Owned and operated Andover travel agency for 10 years

Mary Elizabeth Lengemann, 59, of Orlando, Fla., died of cancer Saturday, June 15, at her home.

Mrs. Lengemann was born in York, Pa. Her parents, Glenn and Genevieve Bailey, owned Bailey Travel Service. From the age of 7, Mrs. Lengemann toured throughout the world with her parents. She took train cruises in Canada, trips through national parks in the United States, transatlantic crossings and vacations in Europe. She worked for the Bailey agency during college and was a flight attendant for Capitol International Airways, flying between United States and Europe.

Mrs. Lengemann graduated from William Penn High School in York, Pa., in 1955 and from the University of Delaware with a bachelor of science degree in education in 1959. She enrolled in the master's in education program at Penn State.

Mrs. Lengemann taught in the public school systems in York, Pa., Northville, Mich., Dallas, Texas and Ashbury Park, N.J.

She married Peter Heinz Lengemann in 1961. The couple traveled extensively, much of it part of their respective work internationally. They lived in Frankfurt, Germany.

Mrs. Lengemann earned a Certified Travel Counselor designation. She was a travel agent for Ask Mr. Foster before she established her own agency, Let's Go Travel, in Andover, which she operated for more than 10 years.

Mrs. Lengemann moved to Lake Forest, Ill. and for five years was Midwest regional sales manager for Cunard Line, operator of the Queen Elizabeth II. She developed programs that were novel in the traveling industry.

One of her most successful was the sports fan cruise, in which fans could be on board with and associate with celebrated baseball players. She organized and promoted cruises for the Boston Red Sox, Chicago Cubs, Baltimore Orioles, San Francisco Giants, St. Louis Cardinals and other major league baseball teams. Mrs. Lengemann established Creative Concepts in Travel in 1986.

Her professional and community affiliates included Andover Garden Club, International Certified Travel Agents, American Society of Travel Agents, Cruise Lines International Association, International Women's Club and Union International Club (in Frankfurt, Germany), Orlando Women in Travel, West Orange Women's Club and Bay Hill Club in Orlando, Fla., and Miramar Bath and Tennis Club in Bonita Springs, Fla.

Mrs. Lengemann and her husband had a vacation home in Bonita Springs.

Besides her husband, members of her family include her son, Kurt Peter Lengemann of Orlando, Fla.; mother, Genevieve Mitchell Bailey of York, Pa., and mother-in-law, Charlotte Lengemann of Cologne, Germany.

She is the mother of the late Peter Heinz Lengemann II.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at John Calvin Memorial Chapel of First Presbyterian Church of York, Pa. Burial was in Mount Rose Cemetery.

Arrangements were by Baumeister, Orcutt & Small Mortuaries in York.

Memorial contributions may be made to National Cancer Institute, Attn.: Doris Kingsbury, 9000 Rockville Pike, Building 31, Room 11A16, Bethesda, Md. 10892.

*Consider
These Thoughts*

by Garry A. Burke

A LOOK AT THE HORIZON

Those who find themselves in the throes of grief should not lose sight of the fact that they will indeed again know a time when there are no tears. As involving as grief may seem at the moment, one is eventually able to pass through it to attain new perspective and acceptance. In an address that he made before the Wisconsin State Agricultural Society, Abraham Lincoln once noted: "It is said that an Eastern monarch once charged his wise men to invent him a sentence, to be ever in view, and which should be true and appropriate in all times and situations. They presented him with the words: 'And this, too, shall pass away.' How much it expresses! How chastening in the hour of pride! - how consoling in the depth of affliction!" Let those who mourn find comfort in these words of wisdom.

Often the first sign of recovering from grief is our ability to recognize that a loss has occurred. This doesn't mean that we are ready to emotionally accept the loss or adjust to life without the person. It only means that we intellectually realize the loss has occurred, that a person we love has died. Funeral rituals are helpful in helping us come closer to resolving grief. For help with funeral arrangements and the paperwork associated with insurance and Veteran's Benefits, call BURKE FUNERAL HOME at 475-5200, or see us at 390 North Main Street.

Eva G. McSweeney, 88, died Friday, June 14, at Sutton Hill Nursing Home in North Andover.

Mrs. McSweeney was born in Cambridge. She had lived in Andover for 64 years.

She was retired from the North Billerica Co.

Mrs. McSweeney attended St. Augustine Church.

Members of her family include her daughter, Ellen M. Santagati of North Tewksbury; sons, A. Stephen McSweeney and Paul H. McSweeney, both of Andover; sister, Anna Connely of Cambridge; five grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

She was the widow of Albert S. McSweeney Sr.

A funeral Mass was said Monday at Edgar J. Racicot Inc. Funeral Home in Lawrence. Burial was in St. Patrick Cemetery in Lowell.

Thomas S. Marjerison Jr. Past member of the Andover Finance Committee

Thomas S. Marjerison Jr., 77, of Washington Park died of cancer Sunday, June 16, at his home.

Mr. Marjerison was born in North Salem, N.H., and came to Lawrence as a youth. He graduated from Lawrence High School in 1936.

His 46 years of employment at H.K. Webster Co. were interrupted only by his service in the Army during World War II.

Mr. Marjerison was a member of United Methodist Church of Lawrence and a longtime member of the YMCA Men's Club. He was a past member of the Andover Finance Committee and past president of Lawrence Rotary Club, of which he was currently sergeant-at-arms.

He was a past master of Grecian Lodge of Lawrence, past thrice potent master of Lawrence Lodge of Perfection and a member of Aleppo Shrine in Wilmington, Merrimack Valley High Twelve and York Rite Bodies of Lowell. Mr. Marjerison was a member of Scottish Rite Bodies of Lowell and Boston and was the deputies assistant for the Scottish Rite in the Merrimack Valley. He was awarded the highest honor in Masonry in 1966, the 33rd degree.

Members of his family include his wife of 54 years, Vida (Donahue) Marjerison of Andover; son and daughter-in-law, Thomas and Jerilyn Marjerison III of Andover; daughter and son-in-law, Beth Ann and Cefus McRae of Norcross, Ga.; sister, Elizabeth Edgecomb of Windham, N.H.; grandson, Thomas Marjerison IV of Cape Elizabeth, Maine and his fiancée, Kirsten Schultz; granddaughters, Kyle Semenetz of Bradford and her husband, Todd Semenetz, and Hannah McRae of Norcross and her husband, Justin McRae; and great-granddaughter Taylor Semenetz.

A funeral service was held Wednesday at United Methodist Church in Lawrence. Burial was in Spring Grove Cemetery.

Arrangements were by Emmert & Sons Funeral Chapel in Lawrence.

Bradford E. Webb Jr., 53, of Austin, Texas, died Feb. 20 at Central Texas VA Medical Center.

Mr. Webb was born in Salem, Mass. He attended Phillips Academy and graduated magna cum laude from Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton, Fla.

He was a former resident of Andover.

Mr. Webb served in the Air Force.

Members of his family include his father, Bradford E. Webb Sr. of Lake Worth, Fla.; sisters, Barbara A. Miner of Andover, Patricia A. Holden of Lantana, Fla., and Lucille W. Cormier of Salem, Mass.; eight nieces and nephews; and several aunts, uncles and cousins.

He was the son of the late Ruth Prescott Webb.

A memorial graveside service will be held Saturday, June 29, at 10:30 a.m. at Spring Grove Cemetery, Abbot Street, Andover.

Ralph B. Duncan Taught history and social studies in Andover schools Ralph B. Duncan, 60, a lifelong resident of Methuen, died Monday, June 17, at his home.

Mr. Duncan taught history and social studies in the Andover school system, most recently at West Junior High School before his retirement.

After graduating from Edward F. Searles High School in Methuen in 1952, he attended Tufts University and served in the army.

As a longtime member of the Masonic Fraternity, he began his association with Masonry as a member of the Essex Chapter Order of DeMolay, where he had served as a past chairman of the Massachusetts DeMolay Foundation, past executive officer of Massachusetts DeMolay and a past chapter adviser. He was a member and past master of John Hancock Lodge AF&AM in Methuen, where he also served as chef for many lodge functions. He was awarded the Joseph Warren Medal for meritorious service in 1991.

Mr. Duncan held many official positions within the Masonic Fraternity.

He was currently serving as High Priest of the Massachusetts Chapter of Research.

He was an honorary member of the Grand Chapter of Georgia, Iowa and Illinois. He was the Grand Representative of the Grand Chapter of the Province of Ontario, Canada. He was Sovereign of Bay State Conclave, Red Cross of Constantine. He was a past Illustrious Master of Lawrence Council Royal and Select Master Masons of Lawrence, and a member of Bethany No. 17, Knights Templar. He was a member of Aleppo Temple AANOMS of Wilmington. He received the highest honor in Scottish Rite Masonry, the 33rd Degree of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction.

At the time of his death, Mr. Duncan was the presiding District Deputy Grand master of the Lawrence 11th Masonic District of the Grand Lodge in Boston. He had also served the Grand Representative, a member of the Grand Lodge Library Committee, and the Grand Lodge Education Department. He had also served as past master of the Merrimack Valley Daylight Lodge.

He was a member of Faith United Methodist Church of Methuen, and was a member of the International Brotherhood of Magicians.

He leaves his mother, Mildred E. (Jones) Duncan of Methuen; his sister, Phyllis M. Russell of Andover; and several nephews, grandnephews and cousins.

Friends may call today, Thursday, from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Charles F. Dewhirst Funeral Home, 80 Broadway, Methuen.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow, Friday, at 11 a.m. at the First Church Congregational in Methuen. Burial will follow in the Elmwood Cemetery in Methuen.

Officers and members of the John Hancock Lodge will conduct Masonic Services at 8 p.m. at the funeral home.

Memorials may be made to the Endowment Fund to John Hancock Lodge, 275 Broadway, Methuen, Mass. 01844.

Golf lessons at Rolling Green will begin next week. Five weeks of lessons will cost $60. Call the center to sign up. Clubs, etc., are supplied.

WHAT'S FOR LUNCH

Monday: Sirloin steak, mashed potatoes, zucchini and tomatoes, pears.

Tuesday: Turkey, stuffing, whipped potatoes, carrots, fruited Jell-O.

Wednesday: Pork loin, applesauce, potatoes, broccoli, fudge brownie.

Thursday: Chicken breast with stuffing and gravy, long grain rice, peas, orange.

Friday: Shrimp poppers, potato puffs, fruit cup.

For reservations, call 623-8321 before 2 p.m. on business day before lunch you plan to attend. The Senior Center will serve fried chicken Monday, July 1, and roast sirloin of beef Tuesday, July 2.

Early walkers

The early bird walking group got underway this week. Anyone wishing to get a little exercise by walking should join us any Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday at 8 a.m. on the track behind the Senior Center.

Let's do lunch!

Bring your own lunch Wednesdays at 11:30 a.m. and join us in the Park. Drinks and lawn chairs will be supplied by the center. No registration is necessary; meet at the front desk.

Or supper

The supper club will travel to Backstreet Wednesday, June 26, at 5 p.m. Make a reservation this week. The menu is available at the center.

What works for middle-school kids

because I can still learn stuff when I'm watching, and I don't want to forget stuff for when I come back," explained Rebecca.

"It's a really friendly environment and it's teaching me something that I can use," she said. "Gymnastics, they demanded a lot of me and if I didn't do it, they'd yell at me."

After

Assuming the sight of a kid attending a program just to watch is a sign of a successful endeavor, Yang's program for middle-school students is doing quite well.

But, as with many programs created for this age group, instructor Chris Fazio said, "We didn't have a whole lot of interest right away."

According to those who create youth programs, middle-school ideas often start slowly and can take two or three years to rise comfortably off the ground. Often what helps them succeed is younger kids in a similar program who decide to move into the new program as they get older.

"People give up really easily. You have to hang in there," said Bill Fahey, Youth Services coordinator.

"What's important for this is are their friends going in it," he said, echoing a statement made by many youth program people. "Get the kids involved, that's the number one thing. If you're just trying to do it through your own means, you're going to be in trouble. Main Street Madness is a great example of that. It would have never worked if just adults had planned it."

While adults are stating to get a better handle on what works best with youth, however, middle school programs continue to fail across the country. Kim Houlihan, of York Street, realizes how hard it is to get a program going. Last summer she tried to start a summer sports play group for young adolescents and asked for other parents to help with supervision. She never got a single call.

"I've been working now with Bill Fahey trying to get a roller hockey league started. I basically have about 10 kids now that are interested in doing it," she said. "I'm hoping."

The Youth Services Department, staffed with young, college-age adults, will work with parents such as Ms. Houlihan to supervise the children.

"There's basically nothing for these kids to do as soon as they're teen-agers. And I think these kids are too young to be home alone even at 13," said Ms. Houlihan. "You see a thousand kids getting into trouble with skateboards and if it's not skateboarding, it's rollerblading. If we could get them off the streets and out of trouble (that would be great). I want to keep them busy."

Setting limits

While many people believe after-school and summer programs can divert some kids from trouble with drugs, violence and sexual activity, others suggest the youth themselves, parents and town representatives can also help by setting rules.

Vicki Simms, West Middle School principal, suggests, "We help youth out when we let them say 'My parents won't let me' " or let them use the excuse that they don't want to get in trouble at school.

Some of those youth who were involved with alcohol and other drugs at an early age also suggest some parents aren't aware of what goes on and that others in the community ignore the problem. Some say when police have found them with alcohol, even when they were in middle school, they would usually just dump out their containers.

Jake, the former dealer profiled in another article, said when he was in school "I used to get in trouble for swearing to teachers, tardy to class, tardy to school. I'd get detention because I was late signing in, but I never got a detention or suspension because I was roaming the schools so (messed) up I couldn't walk a straight line."

But he suggested ultimate responsibility lies with the family.

"Community can't do (anything) for the inside family. Community will only interfere. The best it can do is inform the parent when it sees something going on. In a couple of cases, if you catch the kid the first time he's drinking" you might straighten him out before it escalates.

"There will be a point in their lives where they'll have to make their choices. But it's always good to give them a foundation to grow from," said Jim Loscutoff, who runs a three-year old program for middle-school age kids at Camp Evergreen. "Parents do make a choice in all this. If they don't let their children do certain activities, that's part of parenting, saying, 'No I don't want you to do this.' No, you're not going to be able to keep them away from everything but you can provide them with a good role model and (opportunity to) good experiences."

Good experiences

To some degree, the problem is knowing what youth will consider "good experiences." Instructors at Yang's Martial Arts believe kids have to see a program to try it and suggest the schools allow them to do demonstrations.

"They always seem very self conscious (at that age) so they don't want to be put into a situation where they'll feel awkward," said Chris Fazio, children's program director at Yang's, of the teen program. "They have to have fun. They're not at a point in their lives where they have to do things, outside of school. They don't have to work, they don't have to pay bills so they're not going to stay with something they don't like."

Others involved with middle-school-age programs agreed. If the program's not fun and they don't feel comfortable, it won't be - period.

Katie Bayerl, who graduated from Phillips Academy this year, started the Sisters In Spirit (SIS) program to help Doherty Middle School girls with self-esteem and other issues by linking

Inhalant use is on the rise among teen-agers

By Don Staruk

A recent state Department of Education survey of more than 4,000 Massachusetts high school students concluded that use of tobacco, alcohol and drugs by teens is up from previous years. One of the risk behaviors included in the 1995 survey was the use of inhalants by teens, which it defined as "sniffed glue, breathed contents of aerosol spray cans, or inhaled... paints or sprays to get high."

Andover school and health officials say the use of inhalants is not a common problem in Andover, and Andover police have not made any arrests for possession or illegal use of inhalants. But the state Department of Public Health and the governor's Alliance Against Drugs both see this form of chemical abuse by teens as a problem, and each is in the midst of a public awareness campaign about it.

The Department of Education survey concluded that one in five high school students had used inhalants. The number of students who'd ever tried inhalants decreased from grade 9 to grade 12, which may indicate inhalant use is on the increase. The summary of the survey lumped inhalant use in with "other drugs," such as LSD, PCP, ecstasy, mushrooms, speed, ice and heroin.

The Townsmen was alerted to possible inhalant abuse by local teens recently after a resident dropped off a box of empty cream chargers she found on a street in town. The chargers are used commercially to make whipped cream from liquid whipping cream. But the nitric oxide in them is also one of the chemicals commonly sniffed by inhalant abusers.

"This is just one small example of the evidence of inhalant abuse ("huff-

Jake talks about doing drugs in Andover

By Neil Fater

Before he was 18, Jake had done LSD, mescaline, peyote, crystal meth, demerol, percodan, percocet, pot brownies, mushrooms, garden-variety speed, nitrous oxide and massive amounts of alcohol. But it wasn't until he woke up in Maine with no idea of how he got there that he truly admitted to himself he had a problem.

Shortly after his high school graduation and without professional assistance, Jake stopped drinking, hoping to change his life. But the drugs would not allow an amicable divorce.

"I was completely sick and vomiting and shaking for two weeks. I went through really nice withdrawal symptoms. I became a chronic insomniac from that day on," said Jake.

Drugs have left a scarring mark on some Andover youth, and according to teens, the majority of High-School-age students have at least tried drugs and alcohol. Jake believes many adults, including parents, under-estimate the amount of drugs and alcohol used by some youth.

Jake, now in his mid-20s, was willing to talk with the Townsmen about his experiences, but asked that his real name not be used because family members live in town. Below is part of Jake's story, in his own words. He says his problems started his graduation day from an Andover elementary school, which then included sixth grade.

"It was the last day of school. We took off on our bicycles and we rode up town. I was with five or six other guys... We had a friend of ours buy us a bottle of whiskey. It was nice. We hung out on top of (a business) on Railroad Street, (then) attempted to climb down after we were completely (drunk) out of our minds.

"It was a pretty eventful day. We had a lot of fun and I look back on it as one of my better days. That's the first time I ever started drinking with my friends around town and being a delinquent.

"The rest of the summer I spent at least two or three days a week with two other close friends. We'd sit up on top of (a) building almost every night that we could get (alcohol). We'd get (drunk) out of our minds and attempt to climb down. I'd bike home. I'd run into a few trees. It was carefree, it was frivolous, it was fun. But I became an alcoholic because of it.

"Then somewhere between seventh and ninth grade I really started getting into the hallucinogenic drugs - mescaline, acid, mushrooms. I was getting mushrooms really cheap. I started dealing the mushrooms right around 14 or 15 years old. I was paying, I don't know, $50 to $60 an ounce and I was selling them $200/ounce.

"Business was brisk would be a good way of putting it. Because, as I said, a lot of my friends were a little older than me so I had good contact with the kids who had the money, who had jobs - and so I'm in ninth grade and I'm selling. By the time I get to High School, I literally know half the class because most of them have either been to a party at my house or have bought drugs off me. By the time I became, say 15 or 16, I was throwing a party a week downstairs in my basement (with) maybe 40 or 50 people. It was a regular affair.

"So I'd just deal out of my house. No big deal. Well, it was a big deal, but it wasn't a big hassle.

"Mom was at home every single night, but she just assumed we were down there drinking a few beers. She thought it was better that I be at home having a couple of drinks with my friends instead of being out in the woods drinking and then coming home with a drunk driver.

"So right around that same period I started listening and going to concerts more - really getting into music... I met a girl from California. She made her own acid. She used to send me two sheets a week for $40 a sheet for nearly a year and a half. Ten months of that time I dealt it myself. Made nearly $1,000 a week. Split it with a friend of mine, he used to sell it up at ULowell, I used to sell it here in Andover. It was a great arrangement - tax-free money.

"There was a group of athletes who were really big into the drugs. People ignored it. There was a large group of your straight-A students, you know, boys and girls. Diving team, swimming team, debating team - a lot of these kids did drugs. A lot of their friends didn't know they did drugs. Whether they were ashamed or they didn't want people knowing (I don't know), but they had no problem talking to me about it. They had no problem buying it off me. I'd say by the time I was graduating High School, God, I'd say maybe 90 percent of the people, if they weren't drinking on the weekends or at least once a month, at least dabbled in alcohol and got pretty (messed up) once or twice. And I'd say maybe 70 percent of the school had at least tried pot if they weren't smoking it on a regular basis.

"When I turned 18 I stopped dealing drugs because I didn't like the aspect of being arrested and being tried as an adult and going to jail. I was never, never caught.

"I realized I was spending a couple of hundred bucks a week on alcohol. I couldn't afford it. I started seeing myself broke, not destitute by any means, but looking like a bag of (expletive).

"There was that one time I woke up in Maine with four of my old friends. I didn't know how the hell I got there. Apparently I was the one who drove because I was the most sober out of the lot. And then I started saying, 'You know, I have an issue I have to deal with.' I tried quitting, I like to say 100 times, but it was really more like a couple dozen times. Every day I'd wake up and say, 'I'm not going to drink,' but I usually would by noon."

Shortly after graduation and a final binge, Jake said he was finally able to quit successfully. But even now, years later, the drugs and alcohol still have their role in virtually each day.

"I still have trouble sleeping today and it's been nearly five years. Four years, eight months or something like that," said Jake. "I'm a very depressed individual - not happy with life, not happy with a lot of things. (I have) no motivation and I figure life will take care of itself. I'll move on."

them with high school-age females.

"I can't put (the problems girls deal with) into one sentence. It's the teasing, the media, the curriculum, it's everything. It's a terrible time for girls," she said. "Kids are getting more unsure of themselves. They're changing."

After-School

But Ms. Bayerl said the program has seemed more successful since they started playing some games, rather than just trying to instruct.

"It's just a fun place to be. It's hard to explain - they wouldn't do it if it wasn't fun," she said. "At the beginning I tried to make it more educational discussion and that was just boring. I think it's more important for these girls to have an informal, comfortable environment to hang out in and talk to older girls."

But the learning piece is crucial for middle-school programs, too, according to Sydney Bialo, an administrator for the popular SHED elementary program, who is planning to create a middle school after-school program.

"As far as teaching the kids things they have to be real things that they can apply to their daily interests," said Ms. Bialo.

She also suggests the leaders' openness is particularly important to make the youth feel comfortable and willing to communicate honestly. Successful programs must let the kids themselves do some of the planning, research, phone calls and even financial planning, she said. Yet youth advocates and the youth themselves often seem to mention that successful programs never have the feel of school work.

Parents such as Vicki and Bill Iannazzi, who volunteer and have seen their kids in successful programs, also say the type of instruction and the instructor are key elements of a successful program - such as Chris Fazzio's teen martial arts class.

"I think there's enough discipline to keep them focused on a goal but not so much that it seems like school," said

To some degree, the problem is knowing what youth will consider "good experiences." Instructors at Yang's Martial Arts believe kids have to see a program to try it, and suggest the schools allow them to do demonstrations.

Mr. Fazzio, of his class.

Yet, while kids want more responsibility and thrive when they are given a leadership role over younger children, they also seem to still need praise from adults.

Mr. Fazzio said he originally stopped displaying certificates noting outstanding performance once youth reached the middle-school level because he thought they'd feel too old for that anymore. They complained, asking for it back.

"They don't want to do things that are too serious. They want to have fun," said Mr. Fazzio. "When I talked to them I said, 'I thought you guys would have made fun of that stuff,' and they said, 'Oh we will. But we still want it.'"

"They still want the praise and support," said Ms. Bialo. "It's a delicate balance that you have to strike between how much you do and how much they can do. It also has to be a place where they can be with their friends but not feel closely supervised."

"People always talk about young people and how we should do more," said Bill Fahey. "Volunteerism is huge in this town, especially kids. A lot of kids want to get involved."

"But maybe sometimes instead of working together everyone works on their own area (of interest) instead of focusing on the entire community. It would be a good subject to pursue," he said. "How do you get all these people together?"

ing"), the woman wrote in a note to the editor. Accompanying the five empty chargers was a receipt showing they'd been purchased three days earlier at the Mall at Rockingham Park. The directions warn that "Misuse may be physically harmful and dangerous to your health," and, "Do not inhale!"

When inhaled, the nitrogen oxide or a host of other chemicals that can be inhaled can give the users a short-term high. It can also leave them with long-term physical or mental damage or even kill them.

Last December, a 24-year-old woman died in South Burlington, Vt., after allegedly inhaling the fumes from three cans of air freshener, according to an April Boston Globe report on inhalant abuse.

A Falmouth girl went into respiratory arrest after sniffing vapors from hair spray, according to information from a recent Governor's Alliance Against Drugs conference on inhalant abuse;

A 10-year-old Philadelphia-area boy died last year after intentionally sniffing gasoline fumes in the garage of his family's suburban home, according to an article on inhalant abuse in the January 1996 issue of Pediatric Annals.

In Andover

Two Andover police officers, Dennis Lane and Harry Collins, attended one of the recent Governor's Alliance conferences on inhalant abuse.

"It was a very interesting seminar because I'd never even heard about some of these things," Officer Lane said last week. Officer Lane said he was also impressed because inhalant abuse was called the fastest growing form of drug abuse among young people.

But no arrests have been made in town for inhalant abuse, according to police records.

"Is it because we see it and don't recognize it? I don't know," Officer Lane said.

"It's a relatively more in-vogue form of drug abuse," said Everett Penney, Andover's health director. "It's not something we've had to deal with."

Brenda O'Brien, Andover public schools health education coordinator, said inhalant abuse is not common, but, from what she's heard, there has been some experimenting with it, especially in the middle schools. She said inhalant abuse is included as a topic in drug awareness classes, but that she is cautious in discussing it because she doesn't want to initiate experimentation with it.

"We (want) to apprise students of the risk of even one-time use of inhalants," Ms. O'Brien said. "Magic markers, paints, airplane glue - historically we know students have experimented with these things."

Steve Richardson, assistant High School principal, said there have been six incidents in the High School this year involving kids with drugs or marijuana, but none with inhalant abuse. "I haven't heard of it (in relation) to any of our students having problems like that," Mr. Richardson said.

Bill Fahey, Youth Services coordinator for the town, said that while marijuana and alcohol use seem to be fairly prevalent among kids in town, he has not seen or heard about them using inhalants.

One older teen questioned this week about whether kids in Andover use inhalants said he didn't think so, that inhalant abuse would be seen as too low class for Andover kids. It is a cheap high, and getting money for more expensive drugs is not a problem here, he said.

The law

According to information from the Governor's Alliance conference, there is a 30-year-old state law that makes it a crime to inhale fumes. Abusers face a $200 fine and up to six months in jail. Laws in effect in many states specifically ban the use of toluene, one of the chemicals common in several toxic glues, paints and cements. Others ban butyl nitrate. Massachusetts law requires that glue or cement sold to minors contains oil of mustard, a deterrent against smelling or inhaling the fumes.

The woman who gave the empty cream chargers to the Townsmen pointed out that the packaging left behind is at least one tip-off of substance abuse by a child, if parents know what to look for.

What are they?

Inhalants include common household products, such as solvents, aerosols, anesthetics and liquid chemicals.

Common inhalants include:

- Amyl nitrate, a clear, yellowish liquid sold in a sealed cloth-covered bulb. Breaking the bulb creates a popping sound, hence the nicknames "poppers" or "snappers." In heart patients, amyl nitrate makes the heart beat faster for diagnostic uses;

- Butyl nitrate has many nicknames, including "rush" or "locker room." It decreases blood pressure and increases the heart rate. It caused dizziness and headaches, and the high can last from a few seconds to a several minutes. It is sold in small bottles. Both amyl and butyl nitrates are prescription drugs.

- Nitrous oxide, or laughing gas, is a mild anesthetic commonly used by dentists to relax patients. The dairy industry uses it as a mixing or foaming agent. The racing industry uses it in engines. Whippets are balloons or plastic bags filled with nitrous oxide.

- Texas Shoe Shine refers to spray paint containing toluene.

- Torch or fire breathing refers to igniting exhaled volatile gas, such as propane or butane.

Where are they found?

According to a 1994 National Institute on Drug abuse report, volatile solvents include:

- Adhesives, such as airplane glue, rubber cement and polyvinylchloride cement;

- Aerosols, including spray paint, hair spray, deodorant, air freshener, analgesic spray, asthma spray;

- Solvents and gases, such as nail polish remover, paint remover, paint thinner, typing correction fluid and thinner, fuel gas, cigarette lighter fluid and gasoline;

- Cleaning agents such as dry cleaning fluid, spot remover and degreaser;

- Dessert toppings, such as whipped cream.

How are they used?

They are ingested through sniffing, huffing or bagging.

Sniffing is inhaling directly from an open container or surface. Huffing involves inhaling vapors from a soaked cloth held over or next to the mouth and nose. Bagging is when a substance is put in a bag, which is then placed over the nose and mouth.

Aerosol may be sprayed directly into the mouth, or through a filter to prevent paint or other matter from being ingested.

What do they do?

The immediate effects of nitrous oxide include;

- A high pitched voice;
- Disorientation;
- Fixed vision;
- Throbbing or pulsating hallucinations;
- A higher pain tolerance level.

The psychological effects last about one minute. Excessive or prolonged use damages bone marrow and the central nervous system. Heavy use can cause frost bite of the nose, lips and vocal chords.

Nearly all inhalants are depressants, according to information given out at the Governor's Alliance conference. In small amounts, users feel slightly stimulated or excited. In larger amounts they become intoxicated and less inhibited, similar to the effects of alcohol.

Inhalants can cause loss of consciousness, heart failure, brain and liver damage, and even death, even the first time they are used. Death is typically caused by suffocation when the oxygen in the lungs is replaced by inhalants. Inhalants can also kill by depressing the central nervous system until breathing stops.

Physical symptoms include:

- Nausea, sneezing, coughing, nosebleeds, bad breath, lack of coordination and loss of appetite. Long-term effects of sniffing aerosols and solvents include decreased heart rate and breathing capacity. It can also effect judgment and muscle control.

What to look for:

- Kids sniffing correction fluid or felt markers;

- Empty cans of whipped cream or spray paint;

- Skin discoloration, glassy eyes, nervous tremors, chemical smells or skin rashes near nose or mouth;

- Paint stains on body or clothing;
- Empty containers, especially aerosols or butane.

AHS teachers want more combined-level courses

By Neil Fater

The hot topic of leveling in the schools could be heating up again for the summer.

A group of teachers told the School Committee Tuesday night every teacher in the social studies and English departments wants to introduce more combined-level courses into Andover High School next year.

According to Louis "Skip" Eiserman, social studies teacher, there are currently 33 bi-leveled courses at the High School, including some that have been around for 25 years. With the July 16 cut-off for next year's courses approaching, Mr. Eiserman said the teachers are hoping the School Committee will consider allowing three more combined-level courses for next year.

The three courses are all combined level 2 and 3, including a freshman English course, a sophomore English course, and a freshman social studies course.

Teachers pointed to the success of other combined-level courses such as a two-year-old level 2 and 3 biology class.

Lloyd Willey, committee member, said he's been told in such classes, "The only difference between the two levels is that on the tests the lower level students are given 10 more more points."

"I'd rather have things as they are" for now, he said. "But we need to hear from the community. We need to hear from everyone that's involved in this thing."

At the beginning of the discussion, the teachers said they had a short presentation prepared, but Mr. Willey and Susan Dalton tried to stop it because they felt this matter was a contractual issue that should not be dealt with in open session. Ms. Dalton asked that the record note the teachers had approached Dick Neal, superintendent, about this matter under the grievance portion of their contract.

"This would open the door to airing those types of things," said Mr. Willey.

Ms. Dalton charged the teachers were trying to do "an end-run of the process" by coming before the committee in open session.

"This is not an end run," said Tom Meyers, teachers union president. Mr. Meyers said after the request was denied by Mr. Neal under the grievance proceedings, the teachers no longer considered it a grievance.

Teachers then made their presentation.

Sharon Wilson, social studies department head, said teachers don't want to change the current leveling program, "We're asking for an alternative on the leveling approach."

A matter of organization

A lot of people in Andover are concerned with the youth who live here. The youth themselves, parents, teachers, principals, town government people, and many others all care about our youth.

But during interviews the Townsman conducted for its After-School series, we learned that some groups aren't connecting. Maybe everyone is so busy we aren't taking the time to get into one big room once or twice to pool our energies and point the right people in the right direction.

For instance, Bill Fahey, Youth Services director, and Vicki Simms, principal of West Middle School, were both interested in having an open gym program, but he needed a gym and she needed someone to supervise the activity. Together they may be able to do it. They say they will now pursue it. Pretty simple; pretty effective.

Mr. Fahey says people here talk a lot about doing things for youth. "But maybe sometimes instead of working together everyone focuses on their area, instead of on the entire community," he said. "It would be a good subject to pursue. How do we all work together for a common cause? How do you get all these people together?"

Mr. Fahey says this town has more volunteers than any other community in which he's been involved. Parents who volunteer say they find other parents are willing to volunteer if asked. (Just read the first letter on page 35.) And the youth also want to help the youth — the Community Service program at Andover High School shows that. So new programs don't necessarily have to dramatically impact the budget.

Perhaps school or town officials could host a forum this summer to talk about what volunteers and town resources can come up with for our youth. It seems that people are willing. Now if we can connect the right volunteers with the right town resources, we might come up with some more effective programs for our youth. Let's give it a try.

The Gates and Gables of Andover

By Perry Colmore

If you were one of the 1,200-or-so people who toured Andover houses and gardens Saturday during the 350th Anniversary's Gates and Gables event, you went home after it and either:

- 1) Avoided with passion your cluttered and undecorated house;
- 2) Avoided your already neglected garden and flats sitting on the back steps;
- 3) Sat down and made plans to redecorate your dining room in daring peach; or
- 4) Sent for an application to Radcliffe Seminars graduate program in landscape design.

Perry Colmore

Don't worry. I have it on good authority that the hostesses and perhaps a host or two of the houses that were so generously opened to the public didn't go to bed Friday night. In fact, I asked one hostess, "So where's all your stuff? You know, the garbage and your papers and stacks of reading?"

"The garbage is in the garage and the other stuff is in the basement," smiled the exhausted but game woman.

Women from many surrounding communities, many of whom looked dressed for a lawn party, and a few men took advantage of the treat. Every place I visited had maybe three dozen people touring it at a time, but I never had to wait in line, and I was always able to find a convenient parking place. The event obviously was very well planned.

Karen Herman, chairwoman of the event, and her entourage began working on the house and garden tour a year ago. Saturday was perfect. The weather behaved, nothing was broken or stolen, and not one of the participating houses/gardens pulled out before the show began, said Ms. Herman. For six hours, more than 300 volunteers spoke knowledgeably of the rooms and gardens in which they acted as hostesses or hosts. They were able to cite the size of the room, when it was last painted, why it was decorated as it was, its year and so on. Each house had three shifts of volunteers, because Ms. Herman, who says she has been on scores of house/garden tours herself, decided two hours a shift was plenty.

"The most impressive thing about the event was the quality and commitment of the people," said Ms. Herman, who knew most of the homeowners and the volunteers. She said her committee began with a "dream wish list" of houses that would be perfect for a tour. They also focused on getting houses and gardens near parking areas.

"Then we started talking to people," said Ms. Herman. "We had a lot of people say yes right away."

Virginia Lopez Begg and her husband, Charles F. Begg II, said yes, they would show their garden on La Mancha Way, a late 20th Century Colonial Revival garden with a 210-foot-long perennial border.

The Beggs have lived in their house for 19 years. The house had just been built and "there was not a blade of grass. It was just raw construction," she said.

Even though Ms. Lopez Begg is a New Yorker, she and her husband had been living in California when they moved here. She'd also lived in Maryland and had her first garden there. "I had been gardening three or four years when I moved here," she said.

But don't eat your heart out if you can't figure how she made her garden behave so beautifully, and most of it in the shade, to make it that much more challenging. Ms. Lopez Begg owns more than 1,000 gardening books, she said. "I'm a landscape

Questions about schools' technology

Editor, Townsmen:

With the school firing Mr. Hunzeker, the technology adviser, I am concerned about the deployment of computers and technology in the schools. With a $2 million budget, we have reason to expect a lot.

From what I read about Mr. Hunzeker's views in the Townsmen article, he was making reasonable recommendations. I work in a technology business, and understand how powerful networked PCs can be. I hope the town is not being shortsighted in its dismissal of the adviser.

I think answers to the following questions might help all of us in town understand the situation better than we now do:

1. How have other towns successfully implemented computers into the educational environment? Look at towns similar to Andover and that have a reputation for excellence in the use and teaching of technology.

2. What "master plan" is being pursued by the school department in the roll out of the $2 million technology budget?

3. If Andover doesn't have a master plan, how are we going to put one together, and how have other "successful" communities done the same?

4. What opportunity is there for parental involvement? Many of us work on a daily basis with computers in the workplace. Perhaps there should be a parental steering committee to support the schools in the development and implementation of the technology plan. Maybe that's what the "ad hoc technology committee" is? I don't know.

5. Are any local universities available to participate in technology planning and roll out? Have we looked at the opportunity for collaboration with a university in the definition and implementation of a learning laboratory environment in our schools?

Basically, I am asking if we have evaluated Andover against other towns that may have gone down this path ahead of us.

If Mr. Hunzeker's assessment that one of the chief reasons he was terminated was because of his plan to network the schools, that's frightening! This equipment is not half as powerful on a stand alone basis as it is when connected to a network. If he was not terminated for that and the other reasons he cited, then we have a major disruption in the technology program at the schools but as townspeople we don't know why.

Either way, I don't think the book is closed on this termination, and if you can collect some of the kind of background I am interested in, then I think we'll all have a clearer view of what is going on. (FYI: My wife, Ann, and I have three kids in the school system, all at Bancroft.)

How town government works

Editor, Townsmen:

I have been following and been vocally against a particular subdivision. I have been involved right from the beginning nine months ago. During this time I have gotten a real education on how our town government works. A lot of time and volunteer work goes into the operation of our town. These residents who put in their time should be applauded for their efforts and time they devote to our town. I wonder, watching them in action, if they are not frustrated with our system.

It seems that time is a factor when discussing the issues each board addresses. There are many deadlines that have to be met for many projects. There is only so much time that can be allotted for each issue. People who wish to address their concerns only have so much time to voice them and you're not allowed to repeat what someone else says. It's too bad that time has to be a factor when you are discussing something that implicates your neighborhood as well as the whole town one way or another.

Issues were distorted as they were presented by the engineers to each different board. Sometimes with half truths, sometimes with not truths and sometimes with contradictory statements. It was obvious the board were up against professionals. Many of the meetings were attended by the developer's lawyers which gave the presence and fear that a lawsuit to the town was pending at any time.

The public employees making presentations also gave slanted viewpoints. I was disappointed when the Andover fire chief, when asked at the selectmen hearing how fire was controlled in the Jenkins Road area. He said the home would be left to burn. Support would be brought in from Rowley and Georgetown, two areas not even near Jenkins Road. He did not mention though to the selectmen and the crowd that Jenkins Road is protected not only by the town, but also by the Division of Forestry located two miles up the street and that North Reading and Middleton fire departments were closer and could be around to lend a hand. That there is town water at the beginning and the end of Jenkins Road. That water can be pumped by the forestry trucks for two major pond areas that were put in for fire protection.

The selectmen, with their water commissioner hats on, also were mistaken when they said that the water provided by the town was as good as bottle water. They should know the sodium content is allowed to be two or three times higher than what is allowed by private wells, which supply this road.

The most disappointing concern that I found through this time was that when residents, who were able to attend meetings, were not always listened to. When they were asked to put their comments in writing and they did, these comments were put aside and not addressed publicly.

I am happy for the developer and the neighbors selling their property, they will be able to make a lot of money. I do feel though the process did not address the needs of the community or the neighborhood. I feel the... developers have the advantage. Maybe as we approach "build out" the thing will be re-evaluated.

Bringing up the 1973 Roe v. Wade

Editor, Townsmen:

On May 27, during Andover's Memorial Day observance on the steps of Memorial Auditorium, I was quite taken aback by a remark made by someone introducing Gary Coon. After listing the state representative's achievements, this person added that Mr. Coon had also worked "to codify Roe v. Wade." To allude to this 1973 Supreme Court decision (which legalized abortion through all nine months of a baby's development) during a solemn ceremony which honors courage, sacrifice for others and faith in God, was in my opinion, totally out of line.

I doubt if many of the brave men who died in the defense of our country and its ideals would have favored the historian. I went to the Radcliffe Seminars graduate program in landscape design." That's a master's-level course and it took her six years to complete it, which she did in 1994.

In the early 1980s, Ms. Lopez Begg started writing gardening articles for The Boston Globe and The New York Times. She also wrote a column on gardening for the Eagle-Tribune for two seasons. She has a restful, beautiful, shade garden, with color. If you aren't a gardener, you should know it's difficult to grow plants in shade that bloom the kind of color she's brought to hers. She's a genius in the garden.

I asked her how one begins a garden. "I used a rubber hose to lay out the borders. Then I'd go upstairs and look out the windows. I'd go back down and move it around until I liked it."

The soil on La Mancha Way, she said, "was like concrete." And she'd read that you have to double-dig it. It took three years for her husband to do the digging. They would remove the soil, strain it, add peat and compost.

Today, from mid-April to mid-July, Ms. Lopez Begg spends about 25 hours a week tending her garden. She says only about 10 percent of the plants in it today are the original ones she put in 19 years ago. "I'm continually refining. I live in nurseries."

I know less about the other garden on the tour - the late 20th Century Romantic and Classical gardens of Leslie Frost on Lowell Street. This garden is vast. It goes on and on and is full of texture, color, variety and beauty. Ms. Frost, who is a landscape designer, does all the work in the garden herself. The garden is 20 years old, and she put in all of it. Stay tuned. We'll ask her more about her garden for a future article.

I enjoyed seeing and hearing about the inside of Phelps House, an 1809-'11 Federal-style house where Barbara Landis Chase, head of school at Phillips, lives with her husband, David Chase. The house has been done over in colors and styles of the period.

On the tour we saw the oldest room in Andover, in a house on Central Street. Sandy Stapczynski, one of the volunteers in that house, stood in a very bright poppy-salmon pink dining room and threatened to go home, where she and her husband, Buzz, are doing some work, and paint their dining room that striking color.

You felt a sense of history and of differences in styles taking the tour. At Stowe House on Bartlet Street, where Harriet Beecher Stowe lived and wrote, we learned that the house had been located where the Andover Inn is today. The house was moved to be a Phillips Academy dormitory and faculty house.

Now if your more traditional houses weren't enough, there was Leeann and Richard Crofts' house on Oriole Drive. Ms. Croft is a decorator and a collector of things. How to describe it? You could be in her house for a day and probably not see everything in it. Call it organized chaos, she has collections of, well, oyster plates on the wall of the dining room, Celtics memorabilia in the green and white kitchen, Howdy Doody dolls, Mr. McGoo dolls and more. A barber's chair with a needle-point pillow sits in the living room. Their house was fascinating. It says, "Why be traditional?" "Live it up."

If you were on the Gates and Gables tour of houses and gardens with other 350th celebrants last Saturday, you were living it up! Thanks to Ms. Herman and her committee. It was stimulating and informative.

legalization of abortion. Abortion is a cowardly act that can be performed by a doctor: the invasion of a mother's womb, the attack on a defenseless, innocent developing baby, the stopping of a heartbeat... Who would celebrate this? It is disobedient to the Fifth Commandment for all who are Jewish or Christian. It is a grave injustice.

Taking advantage of this captive audience gathered on Memorial Day to highlight Roe v. Wade was a show of arrogance that I hope will never be repeated in Andover. The rather weak applause for Gary Coon was hopefully an indication of the people's disagreement with his pro-abortion stance.

Let us hope that we as a nation, with the light of truth, will come to serve both mother and child, and we will see a day when, like slavery, abortion will be gone from our land and respect for human life restored.

People are inconsiderate to her parents in Ballardvale

Editor, Townsmen:

This is an open letter to the people who use the street and sidewalk on Andover Street at the Ballard Vale railroad crossing:

About a dozen years ago, my folks, Bob and Jan Henderson, bought a piece of property that for years had been abandoned and badly vandalized. They saw the charm and potential in the old house in spite of what had been done to it. Not a whole pane of glass remained in any of its many windows. The plumbing had been burst and there had been a fire in it caused by vandals. They bought the property, even when the people at the bank just shook their heads over such craziness.

For the last 12 or so years, they worked hard on the place, doing most of it themselves. The place is a jewel now, and has won an award for its restoration and renovation. They've worked hard to make this old house into something of beauty, and many people think they've done just that.

They carted away years of trash and cut down overgrown trees and bushes. They completely gutted the inside and rebuilt it. They planted new shrubs and trees and garden, which many people have admired. If you're still not sure which house I'm talking about, it's the one with the lavish perennial garden right next to the Ballard Vale Post Office. People stop and admire that garden quite often during its blooming season. Some people admire it so much, they feel free to pull into the driveway and pick from the garden.

My mother is always willing to share her know-how and even some plants with people who stop to ask, but do you really think it's OK to take without asking? And the people who walk their dogs along the sidewalk that Bob and Jan gave up some property to have put in. Is it really OK to allow your dog to urinate or defecate on their shrubs and garden? You may not have heard, but the law says it's not OK... You're supposed to clean up after your own animal. My parents shouldn't have to clean up after you, should they?

Not too long ago, new speed limit signs were put up in this section of Ballard Vale. They say that the speed limit is 20 miles an hour through this intersection. The speed limit starts down at the Ballard Vale Green and continues across the intersection to the far side of the bridge. But many people think these signs don't apply to them apparently. Lately, even the police have started taking notice of that fact. This is a very busy little section with the railroad crossing, post office and several businesses all located in such close proximity.

Then of course, this is a cut through for many of the people who work at the businesses out on River Street. My life is as busy as the next person's, but I hope that I don't lose sight of the fact that I'm not the only person with some place to go. I have lost track of how many times I've tried to drive out of the driveway to go somewhere, but had to go in search of the owner of the car parked across the driveway. Usually, they are in the post office doing their business or getting their lunch at Spinners Pizza. Then there were the times I felt like I was playing Blind Man's Bluff, trying to pull out into traffic without being able to see because trucks or vans have parked on either

Professional Profile

Ronald E. Zagaja

Andover Counseling Center's Ronald E. Zagaja is on the cutting edge of a growing business - divorce mediation.

Divorce mediation is an alternative to often costly and lengthy litigation. Mr. Zagaja works with couples as a neutral guide to come up with an agreement they both find fair. They discuss property division, child custody and support, tax implications and other issues. "They know their needs better than the courts," said Mr. Zagaja.

He estimates mediated settlements cost 25 percent of what it would cost couples in the courts and have been shown to last longer.

Divorce mediation has been one of Mr. Zagaja's specialties for the past five years. Much of his practice is in the mental health field.

He is a licensed independent clinical social worker and licensed marriage and family therapist. He has been a family mediator and mental health clinician working with families and children for more than 20 years.

He is trained in divorce mediation and is familiar with the law, but does not give legal advice. He refers people or consults with attorneys when necessary.

He is a member of the Academy of Family Mediators, Massachusetts Council on Family Mediation, Society for Family Therapy and Research and the National Association of Social Workers.

Andover Counseling Center is located in Chestnut Green, 555 Turnpike Street (Route 114), Suite #47, in North Andover.

Dog bites

27 Andover residents were bitten by dogs in 1995, according to Everett Penney, director of public health for the town.

Andover mail carriers are given instructions on how to avoid dog bites. They are told to slowly back away from a dangerous dog without turning their back on the dog, to prevent a blind side attack. The carriers are also instructed to keep something between them and the dog, such as their mail satchel. Other advice includes never encouraging a dog, even the seemingly friendly ones, and carrying mace. Postal carrier Veronica Johnson wishes dog owners would follow her advice: "Keep your dogs chained up."

side of the driveway so close that I can't possibly see what traffic is coming. The driveway is clearly marked, so they can't have missed it. In fact, it's so clearly marked that many people feel free to pull right in and park or turn around in it. The kindergarten bus picks my daughter up at the end of that driveway. Several times this past school year I've had to pull her out of the way when someone has pulled into the driveway without looking. I always thought that a person's driveway was their own private property, but I guess that just isn't so here in Ballard Vale at lunch time. Everyone's in so much of a hurry, that the rules don't apply anymore.

Once "rush hour" is over, you'd think things would quiet down. No so. Especially now that the weather is nice enough to have car windows open and roofs down... and the radio cranked up as loud as it will go. I can hear your music from the time you pass the green until you start turning on the other side of the river. There are times when it actually shakes the whole house. Hot summer evenings seem to be prime time for this behavior, usually when my two children are trying to get to sleep. I don't try to make you listen to my favorite music, and I don't really want to listen to yours. I realize that open windows require a bit more volume, but if I can feel my house shaking to the beat of your music, it's just too loud.

A lot of work has gone into making this old house into a home, and we'd like to be able to relax and enjoy it. We're not the only home on the street either. If you'd take a moment to slow down a bit, I think you'd notice that there are other houses along here and apartments as well. So, slow down and enjoy the drive through Ballard Vale. And please, watch out for the children. School's almost out and soon they'll be everywhere heading for the playground.

Former Andover resident praises house/garden tour

Editor, Townsmen:

I want to thank all those people who opened their homes and gardens on the Gates and Gables tour. Many of the homes were houses I have admired from the outside since I was a kid and seeing the inside just made me admire them even more. Much praise also goes to the committee which ran the Gates and Gables tour. The signs were easy to follow, the map was well drawn and the brochure explaining each of the stops was informative enough to draw you to each stop and then ask questions once you got there. Each of the volunteers (and in some cases the home/garden owners) were knowledgeable enough to answer most questions and if they didn't know an answer they were able to direct you to someone who did. I don't think I have enjoyed a historical tour as much as I enjoyed this one. Congratulations on a job well done.

Fire guts Lovejoy Road house

By Don Staruk

Fire swept through a house at 114 Lovejoy Road Sunday evening, gutting the ranch house and displacing a family. Passersby went to great efforts to warn any occupants about the fire, but the residents - Wesley and Cathy Robie and their 4-year-old daughter, Joanna - had were not home.

"They had left at approximately 5 o'clock," Deputy Fire Chief Robert Boush said.

Two pet cats died in the fire, according to Deputy Boush. They were found in parts of the house away from the origin of the fire.

Mary Pike, of 20 Lovejoy Road, called the fire department at 6 p.m. after she was alerted to the fire by a passing motorist.

According to Deputy Boush, two employees at the Internal Revenue Service Center on Lowell Street, which backs up to the Lovejoy Road house, spotted the fire from the loading dock at the IRS and went over to help. Jeff McNulty and John Sousa jumped a fence and as they went around toward the front of the house the rear windows blew out, nearly striking Mr. McNulty. They yelled into open windows in case anyone was in the house.

John W. Meaney, an off-duty Lawrence firefighter on his way to visit a friend in Andover, then arrived and broke down the front door. Firefighter Meaney crawled into the living room and toward the kitchen on all fours, searching for occupants before being driven back by the fire.

Mr. McNulty meanwhile took the garden hose and started using it to douse the flames, but the electric line to the house broke loose and fell, nearly striking him. Arriving Andover police officer Cecilia Blais witnessed Mr. McNulty's close call, according to Deputy Boush.

Flames were coming out a rear-side window and door and there was heavy smoke throughout the house when firefighters arrived, according to Deputy Boush. The main fire was in a rear family room and went into a front garage area and the kitchen, and broke through the roof before it was contained. There is heavy smoke and heat damage throughout the single-story house, the deputy said. Deputy Boush brought in two troopers from the state fire marshal's office, and a dog to sniff for accelerants, in investigating the cause of the fire. A state electrical inspector was at the house Tuesday.

"At the moment we have ruled out a lot," Dep. Boush said. "I don't think it's suspicious. It looks like an electrical problem."

The Robie family returned home at about 7 p.m. Sunday, while firefighters were still at the scene. The Robies are staying with relatives in Methuen.

Throwing snowballs, forging report cards: Are they the same?

By Neil Fater

Which does Andover High School consider worse, throwing a snowball or setting off a firecracker? Do they punish spitters or students who forge report cards more severely? Will a student get in more trouble for swearing, for cheating on a test, or for skipping school?

The answers to such questions are in Andover High's student handbook, an overview of High School policies that the School Committee reviewed Tuesday evening. The handbook lists equal punishment for nearly all of the actions listed above.

"A lot of that's been there for quite a while," said Steve Richardson, assistant principal. "This year we went through every one and (for many) there was little or no discussion."

According to Mr. Richardson, a committee of parents, teachers and students looked over the old High School handbook and left more than 90 percent of it intact.

The handbook bunches snowball throwing and firecracker lighting under the same policy. Students performing either action "will be given five detentions for the first violation. Additional infractions will result in SWAP or an external suspension." A SWAP is a Saturday program where students may be required to clean school property.

Students will also receive five detentions for the first time, and a SWAP for the second time, they:

- spit;
- use or possess tobacco;
- forge a report card; or
- cheat on a test.

Considered more serious than these offenses is using inappropriate language or gestures. A student who violates that policy will receive a SWAP for the original violation.

A student who skips school will receive five hours of office detention for the first violation and a SWAP or external suspension for additional cases. Mr. Richardson said the committee that reviewed the handbook accepted these punishments as reasonable.

"You sort of have to be there. You have to be the one to walk through the spit or get the iceball on the head. The kids are very good" at judging because they deal with the situations themselves, said Mr. Richardson. "They feel that that's an appropriate way to resolve the issue."

Mr. Richardson did acknowledge there's some level of flexibility to separate say, someone who throws an iceball at a person from someone who throws a snowball at the Rock.

Figuring what the Andover schools need in technology

on the schools' technology status.

In his statement, parts of which were published last week in the Townsmen, Mr. Hunzeker charged that the Andover administration is afraid to change the status quo.

"I think there's a leadership crisis," said Mr. Hunzeker, when asked by David Birnbach, committee member, to summarize his statement. "The people of Andover are being asked to spend a lot of money to do technology that is 20 years old."

The committee did not have Mr. Hunzeker read the statement but said it would enter his commentary into the record.

Marianne Knowles, of Chandler Road, said she came to the meeting to hear Mr. Hunzeker's statement and was interested in hearing a response from the School Committee. Candace Borrello, a Doherty Middle School teacher of 24 years, said she came to support the administration. As a member of the technology curriculum council and the ad hoc technology committee, she has seen the technology effort move forward since Marinel McGrath, assistant superintendent, came on board, she said.

"We know where we're going," said Ms. Borrello. "We're not on the cutting edge. We're not going to get there very fast, but we are going to get there."

Ms. McGrath said she and teachers with technology stipends expect to soon complete the technology plan that must be submitted to the state by July 1 for Andover to be eligible for state funding. Andover also expects to hire a technology integration coordinator within the next two weeks, primarily to work with the teaching staff, said Mr. Neal.

"Another way of looking at it is if expectations aren't being met and we went on another three months (with Mr. Hunzeker) people would have looked at that as a waste of time," said Tina Girdwood, committee chairwoman, in an interview this week.

"As much as anything it probably wasn't a proper match," said Mr. Neal, also during an interview. "The things Bill Hunzeker was looking at were more in line with an industry type of setting."

"We've got some groups inside the system now that are working and have been working on the five-year plan," said Mr. Neal.

Although Mr. Hunzeker said he believes his strong pro-networking stand was the reason for his dismissal, school leaders claimed they support that goal, but must take their financial limitations into account.

"I think we've always felt that networking was something we were very interested in," said Mr. Neal. But the ad hoc technology committee figured, "Given the financial restraints that we had, it wasn't the highest priority," he said. "I don't think it's a question of do we want to or not want to, it's more a question of are we able to."

"I think a network is crucial at the High School. I don't think anyone disputes that," said Lloyd Willey, during the committee meeting. He said he could see the day when a student would begin a science lab on a school computer and then access the same information and complete the job on a home computer.

"If it's not done that way, there's something wrong," said Mr. Willey.

of the town comply with policy determinations of the selectmen."

The town charter does not specify any other authority over the water works, so it would appear to fall under the selectmen's area of control.

Prior to 1956, the state Legislature's Acts of 1912 had provided for a Board of Public Works to oversee the roads and what was in them, "but all right and authority to lay out streets and to grant franchises or locations in public ways for electric or other railways (was) vested in the Board of Selectmen." So even then it appears that since selectmen had control over roads and what went in them, and over the Board of Public Works, they would have had control over the water.

Sandy Cassano, secretary for Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, provided the Townsman with some direction on the answer to this question.

Ms. Cassano said she recently spent an afternoon looking for an answer to this question for Mary Leonard of 328 Salem St.

Extra teachers needed in our schools?

By Neil Fater

Although the school budget for next year only has enough contingency money to hire two extra teachers in an emergency, early enrollment numbers for next year show the schools already may need four more.

Student-teacher ratios near the School Committee's high-water mark exist at the fourth grade at Bancroft, the fifth grade at South, the sixth grade at Doherty Middle, and most recently at West Elementary's first grade.

School officials said they expect some other numbers to rise during the summer.

Kristin Wise, of Inwood Lane, said she also fears the numbers may still be "artificially low." Although people who are moving out of town have probably made that known, new people moving into the school system may not have contacted it yet, she said.

This Andover High junior's star is rising in the tennis world

By Rick Harrison

Heather Young was 4 years old when she started hitting tennis balls around the court in the backyard at home.

She was 10 when she played in her first tournament, and won it, at the Falmouth Tennis Club.

Today Heather, who turned 17 last month and will soon finish her junior year at Andover High, is considered by many the best female tennis player ever at AHS.

The 5'4", 120-pound craftswoman of the court is undefeated through three seasons of Merrimack Valley Conference play, spanning a total of 35 matches, and she is 52-4 overall including state individual and team tournament play.

Two of her losses came against 1995 state champ Elisa Banner of Bedford, both times in the Eastern Mass. North Individual Tournament finals.

She is a two-time MVC Player-of-the-Year, and last Sunday night at the Boston Globe banquet she accepted her second All-Scholastic plaque as one of the elite high school players in Massachusetts.

No weaknesses

"Heather is the best all-around tennis player we've had in my years here," said veteran Andover High coach Tony Russo, whose teams have won eight straight MVC championships, 95 consecutive league matches and are 168-1 in their last 169 conference matches. "She has a variety of skills and no real weaknesses.

"She plays the baseline as expertly as she plays at the net, and she's very intelligent in terms of how and when to attack an opponent.

"Heather is business-like on the court," continued Russo. "She doesn't waste any time or strokes. She finishes her points and her games as quickly as possible.

"Her work ethic is amazing. And when the other players on the team see some- one of her ability and talent working that hard, it becomes contagious.

"As a person Heather is unassuming. She doesn't see herself as different from or better than our other players. She's team-oriented. She talks to and helps the other kids. She's like a second coach."

The only other AHS female players who have come close to making the same impact in recent years are sisters Alison and Andrea Georgian, both of whom were highly successful and also earned MVC Player-of-the-Year.

player, male or female, to come through the high school program," noted AHS men's coach Mike Wartman. "We had one boy (Jeff Hechemy) reach the (Eastern Mass. Individual) North finals once. Heather has already done it twice and she has another year left.

"She has all the strokes. She's solid at the baseline and comfortable when she's volleying. She's a smart player with a good tennis disposition. She doesn't get down on herself during the infrequent times things don't go well. She stays collected.

"She's also an outstanding sportswoman. Character is very high on her list of Both Roger and Linda are recreational tennis players. They are delighted at the talents displayed by both Heather and her younger sister, Robin - also a standout at age 14 - but they have never pressured their children into long hours of practice or tried to make them do more than they wanted.

"We bought a house in Andover and it happened to come with a tennis court," explained Linda. "While other people were pitching whiffleballs to their kids, we were 'feeding' Heather and Robin tennis balls to hit around.

"It was something our whole family could do, and we wanted our girls to know and enjoy a sport they could play their entire life.

"You can also carry a lot of the lessons you learn on the tennis court over to every-day life.

Successful start

"Heather was 4 when she began swinging the racquet, and her talent just blossomed over a period of years," continued her mom.

"The tournament play started very innocently. We were vacationing on the Cape one summer and some friends encouraged us to enter Heather in a tourney. Roger and I weren't sure but Heather was excited when we asked her about it."

"It was so long ago I don't remember too much," said Heather. "I think I must have been nervous. When I first started playing tournaments I used to get really nervous."

"There were only four girls in the tour-

Eagles champions of Division I U-12 boys; will play Saturday in State Tournament

The Andover Eagles were tied with Ipswich for second place in the boys' U-12 Division I, with a 4-2-1 record. A playoff game for second place was held in Lynnfield Wednesday night, June 12. The Eagles managed to score a goal in the first half. Ipswich started to make errors in the second half and the Eagles won the game 4-1.

This win allowed the Eagles to play in the playoff games starting Saturday, June 15.

Andover beat Lynnfield, the first-place team in its division, 3-1 in the first game.

Sunday's game was against North Andover, a team they had trouble with all season. Geoff O'Donoghue deflected a shot into the net in the first few minutes of the game for Andover's first goal. North Andover scored on a penalty kick to tie the game. Jon Konjoian's goal in the second half was taken back because of an offside penalty. The Eagles kept the pressure on and were awarded a penalty kick. Dan Cote kept the ball low and scored the winning goal - and the Eagles became champions of the Essex County Division I U-12 boys. They will play in the Massachusetts State Tournament of Champions this Saturday, June 22, at Fort Devens.

The Andover U-12 Div. 1 Eagles soared to victory at the annual Bilerica Memorial Day tournament. The Eagles tied one game and won two to qualify for the semifinals. They won their semifinal game and were matched up in the final game with the team they tied with earlier in the weekend.

Andover 0

The game was the first for both teams. They both played defensive games with the Eagles having more scoring opportunities throughout the game. The Eagles had to settle for a scoreless tie. Greg Mongeau played well in the goal. Matt Monteiro, Mark Murphy, Andy Chiaraluce and Oliver Gregory played great defense.

Andover 6
Sanborn 1

The Eagles outplayed Sanborn from the start of the game. Geoff O'Donoghue scored three goals, Willy Waters scored one and Andrew Varley scored two. Jeff Sandman and Matt Schiff played well in the midfield along with Dan Cote and Michael Corey. Derek Powers played well in forward and midfield positions.

Andover 8

The Eagles scored three goals in the first half. The entire Eagle team played flawless soccer. Jeff Sandman scored off a corner kick from Michael Corey with Willy Waters, Geoff O'Donoghue, Michael Weisner (2), Dan Cote, Andrew Varley and Greg Mongeau also scored. Andrew Tonnelli played well in a defensive position.

Post 8 American Legion team rips off 4 quick wins to open the season

By Rick Harrison

The Andover Post 8 American Legion baseball team broke out of the starting gate quickly last week, launching its 1996 summer season with four convincing wins over Methuen Post 122 (10-3), Beverly (16-1), North Andover (8-0) and Middleton (12-2).

Post 8, which has won five Essex County Zone 8A championships in the last seven years, will play a 26-game regular season schedule, including 22 against Zone 8 opponents and a guaranteed four in the annual Skip Morrison Tournament scheduled the weekend of June 28-30 in Lynn.

There are 18 teams in Zone 8, separated into three divisions, with Andover joined by Haverhill, Methuen, North Andover, Lawrence Post 15 and Middleton in its division.

Post 8 will play each team in its own division twice and the 12 teams in the other two divisions once each.

All members of this year's team reside in Andover, and the majority played on the Andover High varsity squad, which this spring shared the Merrimack Valley Conference Large School Division title and advanced to the semifinal round of the MIAA Division 1 North Tournament.

The roster includes Brian Tisbert, Mark Langone, Rob Busby, Mark O'Sullivan, Jason Caverly, Steve Vickers, Ben Gibson, Scott Petersen, Keith Grant, Hugh Quat-tlebaum, Dave Salafia, Ted Payne, John Hogan, Dan Gosselin, Ryan Hannigan, Rick Johnson, Joe Maglio and Rob Oppenheim.

Quattlebaum played at Phillips Andover Academy this year, Payne recently moved to Andover from Maryland and played at Phillips Exeter Academy, and Salafia is a student at Pingree School in South Hamilton.

Returning as coaches for Post 8 are Joe Iarrobino, Steve Tisbert and Kevin Rourke.

The deep pitching staff includes high school All-Scholastic Langone, Caverly, Busby, O'Sullivan, Salafia, Payne, Gosselin and, in a pinch if needed, Tisbert.

Busby and O'Sullivan both notched two victories in the first four games. Langone and Caverly, a combined 15-1 for Andover High this spring, have been resting their valuable wings.

"Both had tired arms at the end of the high school season so we've given them some time off," said Iarrobino.

Caverly was scheduled to make his '96 Legion mound debut earlier this week against Haverhill.

Home games this season are being played at Merrimack College.

"With the construction at Andover High and the shortage of fields in town, we were in a bind and forced to explore other avenues," said coach Iarrobino. "We couldn't use Doherty Middle or Phillips Academy because of conflicts, and for awhile our only alternative was to play all our games away.

"But Merrimack athletic director Bob DeGregorio came through in a big way by giving us the use of their field for home games. He and his assistant, Peter Palladino, have been great to us. We've played two games at Merrimack so far and the field has been lined and groomed. We greatly appreciate the way they responded."

Morrison Tournament

All games in the tourney will be played at the fully-lit Breed Junior High complex in Lynn.

In addition to Andover, which went 4-0 in the inaugural tournament last summer, the participants include Legion teams from five states: New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

The New Hampshire entries are Portsmouth and Keene, while co-hosts Lynn Post 6 and Lynn Post 345 complete the field.

Schedule

Post 8 (4-0) faced a big early-season showdown with likewise-undefeated Haverhill (3-0) this past Tuesday night at Haverhill Stadium.

"Haverhill has players from Haverhill High, (Division 2 power) Pentucket Regional and Ames-

Brian Tisbert takes aim at Fenway's Green Monster

Andover High junior Brian Tisbert was one of an elite group of athletes selected to play for the Massachusetts All-Star team in its annual game against the Connecticut All-Stars last Monday at Fenway Park in Boston.

Tisbert, a Merrimack Valley All-Conference choice and All-Scholastic in baseball this season while batting exactly .500 and continuing his slick fielding at shortstop for the Golden Warriors, earned a place on the Bay State team with his performance throughout the spring and again last Sunday at the 19th annual Eastern Mass. North-South All-Star Game in Lynn.

Tisbert had one hit and scored one run, while Mark Langone also represented Andover well with two hits and solid play at third base and pitcher, as the North team dropped an 11-5 decision to the South.

bury," said coach Iarrobino. "They are pre-season favorites in our Zone, along with (defending state champ) Swampscott and Peabody (Division 1 North high school champ). But we expect to be challenging, too."

Post 8 returns to action tomorrow night against Lawrence Post 15 under the lights at Mark Devlin Field (8 p.m.), and on Saturday the locals will host Revere at Merrimack College (5 p.m.)

Andover 10 Methuen 3

In the season opener at Pelham Street field, shortened to five innings by darkness, lefthander Rob Busby (1-0) yielded only two hits, fanned six, walked two and had a shutout into the bottom of the fifth when Post 122 scored its three runs.

Andover broke open a 4-0 game with six runs in the top of the fifth, the key strokes an estimated 375-foot two-run homer to left-center by Mark O'Sullivan, an RBI single by Keith Grant and a sacrifice fly by Brian Tisbert.

O'Sullivan finished the game 3-for-3 with three RBI, Jason Caverly reached base four times with a double, single and two walks, Mark Langone laced a run-scoring single in the first, and Tisbert added a basehit.

Andover 16 Beverly 1

Jason Caverly and Mark O'Sullivan combined for nine hits, and Post 8 broke the game wide open with 11 runs in the top of the second at Beverly High's Cooney Field.

O'Sullivan (1-0) worked the first four innings on the hill, throwing only 41 pitches while yielding one hit and whiffing six.

Dave Salafia mopped up with three strong innings of relief.

Caverly contributed a career day at the plate with 5-for-5, including three triples and one double, while driving in seven runs and scoring three.

O'Sullivan was close behind with 4-for-5, including his second home run in two games, a double and six RBI.

Scott Petersen spanked four singles and scored three runs, Mark Langone laced three singles and collected two RBI, Steve Vickers (RBI) and Ben Gibson added two singles each, and Brian Tisbert had a single and scored three runs.

Andover 8 North Andover 0

Mark O'Sullivan (2-0) came back to pitch six innings in Post 8's home opener at Merrimack College, allowing only three hits.

Monday night's retirement dinner honors Coach Dick Collins

By Rick Harrison

Friends and admirers from several New England states, and perhaps as far away as Texas, are expected to congregate at the Ramada Rolling Green Inn in Andover next Monday night to pay tribute to longtime Andover High teacher and coach Dick Collins.

"Dick Collins Night," a retirement testimonial, will honor the man whose academic and athletic achievements over his 37-year career at AHS have grown to legendary proportions.

The evening begins with a social hour at 6 p.m., dinner at 7:15 and the testimonial portion of the program will wrap things up.

At least two state representatives are scheduled to be on hand with numerous gifts, plaques and proclamations to be presented.

The Collins' Night committee, headed by former teacher and Andover Selectman Jerry Silverman, has at least one blockbuster announcement planned, organizers said.

Some of the speakers will undoubtedly use the forum to "roast" Coach Collins with good-natured anecdotes, stories and remembrances.

The man of the hour will also have rebuttal time.

The Ramada Rolling Green Inn is located at 311 Lowell St. (Route 133), at the junction of Route 93 across from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) building.

For further information contact Andover Schools Coordinator for Physical Education Richard Bourdelais, or Andover High Athletic Director Jim Hurley at 623-8570.

Tisbert named male student athlete of the year — Brian Tisbert (third from left), a junior at Andover High School, and Ada Colon, a senior at Lawrence High School, are the 1995-'96 male and female Merrimack Valley Student Athletes of the Year. They received their awards Wednesday, June 12, at the Ramada Hotel Rolling Green at a luncheon in their honor. The luncheon culminated a year-long program sponsored by Moynihan Lumber and WCCM radio in which student athletes were acknowledged on a weekly basis. Only winners of the weekly awards were eligible to be selected student athlete of the year. Each winner was asked to select the person they would like to have present them with their award. Mr. Tisbert chose Andover High's football coach, Dick Collins (second from left), who said, "Brian is the best all-around player I have had in 37 years of coaching." In addition to his ability as a football player, Mr. Tisbert is also an outstanding baseball player, organizers said. He led his team to the state tournament and was recently named to the Boston Globe's All-Scholastic baseball team. Coach Collins, who is retiring this year, said it will be very difficult not to have the privilege of coaching Mr. Tisbert in his senior year. With Coach Collins and Mr. Tisbert are sponsors Gerard (left) and Jack Moynihan (right). In addition to the plaques received by the winners, plaques were also given to the athletic directors of the schools. Jim Hurley, Andover High athletic director, accepted the award for AHS.

striking out seven, walking three and tossing less than 75 pitches.

Closer Hugh Quattlebaum preserved the shutout with a perfect 1-2-3 seventh that included one strikeout.

Andover did all its damage in the first three innings, scoring twice in the first before adding three in both the second and third frames.

Rob Busby highlighted the second stanza with a two-run double, and Keith Grant did the same in the third with another two-run two-bagger.

Busby, Grant and Scott Petersen laced two safeties each for Andover, while Mark Langone and Hugh Quattlebaum had one single apiece. Mark O'Sullivan walked twice and scored two runs.

Brian Tisbert was a defensive standout at shortstop, handling six chances flawlessly and starting a double play in the fourth that kept the shutout going.

Andover 12
Middleton 2

Southpaw Rob Busby (2-0) went the seven-inning distance, scattering four hits while fanning seven and walking two as Post 8 rolled once again at Merrimack College last Sunday.

Andover put together back-to-back three-run innings to open the game, doubled the lead to 12-0 with a six-run fourth, and then surrendered single runs to Middleton in the fifth and seventh.

Leadoff batter Tis-bert reached base five straight times, with a single and four walks, and he scored twice.

Ben Gibson lashed three singles and collected three RBI, while Jason Caverly added two safeties including a two-run double in the second.

Keith Grant contributed a double, Scott Petersen and Steve Vickers had one single each, and defensive standouts for Post 8 were center fielder Caverly and catcher Grant.

AHS tennis star mastering tournament play

nament and Heather won it," said Linda. "Right away she wanted to do another one."

"After I won I thought 'this is pretty easy' and I wanted to play again," said Heather.

Seven years and many tournaments later, she enters United States Tennis Association (USTA) New England Division play this summer ranked No. 7 in the 18-and-under age group division.

USTA Tournaments run throughout the year, indoors and outdoors, on several different playing surfaces (hardcourt, grass, clay).

Last year Heather, who was 16 and playing up one division in the 18-and-under, won a major title at the New England Clay Court Championships in Rhode Island. Two years ago she won a big tournament in Connecticut and recently she placed first in a tourney in Concord (Mass.).

Traveling the country

She has played in national tournaments as well, events that have taken her and the family to Arizona (last January), Houston, St. Louis, Lansing (Mich.), South Carolina and New York City.

The Nationals are a whole new ballgame, however, and Heather has used them as a learning experience.

Ranked 138th nationally in her age group at the end of 1995, her best showing so far was at last year's National Indoor Championships in Houston, where she won a pair of matches and advanced to the Round-of-32 in an official field of 128.

"The biggest difference between Heather and the national players, or someone of Elisa Banner or (Brookline High standout) Taryn Ashley's caliber, is the mental toughness," said Linda Young.

"That's something that just takes time and lots of experience playing against the best in the country," explained Heather.

Next Monday (June 24) Heather, whose favorite playing surface is hardcourt because the bounces are truer, will compete in the annual USTA-New England Sectional Tournament qualifier at the Wightman Tennis Center in Weston.

The top 32 players in each age group are invited, and those who do well will receive an endorsement to participate in the various hardcourt, grass and clay court tournaments upcoming this summer at such locations as Philadelphia and Nashville.

Training regimen

"I try to play with a lot of pride. I think my biggest strength is my groundstrokes. I'm a baseline player but so is almost everyone else. I try to keep the ball as deep as possible. I like to hit to the corners and then come in to finish off the point."

"I need more work on recognizing and exploiting my opponent's weaknesses."

A typical week for Heather involves between 10-15 hours of practice.

During high school season in April and May there are matches three times per week and USTA tournaments on the weekends.

For the past three years she has trained with her main coach, Bob Lechten, at Danvers Racquettime and also with Bill Presti at the Rolling Green Tennis Center in Andover.

She also hits with friends, usually for an hour to 90 minutes, four or five times each week and works out long and hard on the stepping machine.

"I stick to the schedule pretty tightly, but after a big tournament I might take a day or two off to relax."

Heather and younger sister Robin, who completes the seventh grade this month and is already taller (5'7"), practice a lot in the backyard but do not challenge one another.

Junior is AHS tennis star

"We don't want a tennis rivalry between the two girls," said Linda. "Their styles are completely different. Heather is a more cautious, consistent and patient player, while Robin is more aggressive."

Diversity

Heather, who also has a passion for ping-pong, is an accomplished flutist and pianist who was a member of the Andover High Senior District Band.

She played soccer as a freshman and volleyball her sophomore year, but gave up those sports and the band to concentrate on tennis.

She has yet to be challenged in a league match but enjoys very much the camaraderie of playing with her teammates at Andover High.

"Tennis is a very lonely sport," explained her mom. "All the USTA Tournaments are individual.

Andover High is the only place she can play and get the feeling of a team concept. It's still 1-on-1 competition but all the players are also cheering for one another and working for a common goal."

Her favorite professional players are retired former superstar Chrissie Evert and Mary Jo Fernandez.

"I like them because they try so hard on every point. They're so tough mentally and they're both great players," said Heather.

There are no illusions about being good enough to some day turn professional. The majority of today's great young women players are away at tennis schools before they become teen-agers, and the Chris Everts, Tracy Austins, Jennifer Capriatis and Mary Pierces of the world are pros by the time they're 15.

O'Donoghue from the left side. Greg Mongeau played outstanding in goal while Matt Wotjkon and Jonathan Konjoian had a great game at midfield. The defense of Matt Monteiro, Oliver Gregory, Andy Chiaraluce and Mark Murphy was outstanding. Jeff Sandman sent a great cross pass to Willy Waters, who scored the winning goal to give the Eagles the win.

FINAL Andover 2 Bedford 1

The Eagles wasted no time in establishing the edge with continuous offensive and strong defensive play. Bedford scored first on a direct kick awarded them outside the 18-yard line. Just before the half, Mike Corey kicked a corner kick to Oliver Gregory who shot on net, only to have the ball hit the goal. Geoff O'Donoghue got the rebound and kicked the ball in the net to tie the game. Late in the game the Eagles were awarded an indirect kick outside the 18-yard line. Mike Weisner received the kick and sent high it wants to attend a college where she can play competitive tennis and begin her pre-med studies with hopes of one day becoming a pediatrician.

Society student ranked very high academically in her class. Heather

She loves kids and does community service work tutoring elementary school students.

Depot House of Pizza

Since 1978 the Depot House of Pizza has been a favorite spot for families and students to enjoy meals and snacks. The excitement of watching the commuter trains come and go has always added to the fun, especially for the children.

Depot House of Pizza owner Ted Exarchos has continuously expanded their menu and offers a large selection of favorites. It is famous for its pizza and grinders of almost any combination one can imagine. There are 21 pizza toppings to choose from. In addition, they serve spaghetti, salad, lasagna, manicotti, chicken dinners, and hamburgers. Sirloin tips and marinated chicken tenders dinners are both served with a choice of rice or French fries. Side orders include chicken fingers, buffalo wings, French fried onion rings and potatoes. Calzones can be made with any of the same fillings available for pizza toppings. At last count 27 choices of subs were offered. Beer and wine are available to enjoy with the meal.

New items recently added to the menu include fried haddock dinner (served with French fries, cole slaw and tartar sauce) and fish and chips.

All dishes are homemade on the premises. Fresh dough and sauces are made daily for their pizzas. The entire menu is available for take-out.

Ted Exarchos offers convenience as well as delicious food. A phone call ahead of time will have your order waiting for pickup or to eat on the premises by the time you arrive.

Depot House of Pizza is conveniently located by the train depot and Dundee Park at 53 Essex Street, Andover. They are open seven days a week. Hours are Monday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. and Sunday 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Circles of Wisdom

Circles of Wisdom, a New Age Bookstore and resource center, has been in business in Andover since August, 1994. Owner Steven DeRoche and his wife, Mary V. DeRoche, welcome area residents to visit the store at 90 Main Street.

A large selection of metaphysical books, dealing with such subjects as astrology, angels, dreams, and Shamanism, line the walls of the shop. Steven will gladly guide the visitor in making choices from the books on alternative health and holistic medicine as well. If necessary, he is able to special order titles not in the collection. Over 10,000 used books of miscellaneous titles are available for sale.

As a resource center, Circles of Wisdom has three rooms available for classes and workshops taught by professionals who are experts in various fields. A list of classes and study groups on subjects such as meditation, crystals, astrology, aura reading and natural remedies for health is published in their quarterly newsletter which can be picked up at the store. Call to have your name added to the mailing list for future announcements. A bulletin board in the store contains a wealth of information about area professionals and publications relating to metaphysical subjects.

Crystals form all over the world in a wide range of prices are beautifully displayed in well-lit cases.

Jewelry, scented candles, wind chimes, Native American items, and incense are also available in the store. Native American music, chant, and New Age music by such performers as Yanni, Kitaro, and Nakai are available on CD or cassette tapes; music is playing in the background while you shop.

Gift certificates are available at Circles of Wisdom; major credit cards are accepted.

Circles of Wisdom is located at 90 Main Street, Andover. Hours are Tuesday and Thursday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Wednesday, Friday and Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. They are closed Sundays until next winter.

Realtor saves homeowners $1000's in Title V septic repairs

If you have a septic system and are thinking of selling your home, one fax could save you up to $15,000. When you sell your home you are required to have your septic system certified that it passes the Title V State septic regulations. The septic system failure rate of 22% in Andover is much lower than the state average of over 40%. This is credited to stringent regulations in place for years in Andover.

There are steps

homeowners can take to prevent septic system failure. Pam Lebowitz, Broker/owner of Century 21 Carriage House, has successfully coordinated many septic repairs. She has compiled a recommendation sheet for prospective home sellers. To obtain a free fax of this information, a copy of Title V State Regulations, call 1-888-FAX-2100 and request #2002 or call Pam Lebowitz, 475-1243, for a free consultation.

When the Seller Pays the Realtor

The sales fees or commissions that Realtors charge sellers are set by each individual company, and may vary from property to property. Many factors effect the amount of commission a company will charge an individual homeowner: the "salability" of the property, the "realism" of the list price, the motivation of the seller, the duration of the contract, the competition, and etc. With regard to any single property, Company #2 doesn't know what Company #1 is charging that particular seller; Company #2 only knows the amount Company #1 is willing to share in return for Company #2's help procuring a buyer.

Most offices charge the sellers a percentage of the sale price. A few companies, however, also charge what they call a transaction fee in addition to the percentage. This fee is often payable whether or not the property sells. Many homeowners, upon the sale of their property or the expiration of the listing, have been unpleasantly surprised to learn about this transaction fee, because their Realtor failed to mention it at the time the property was listed.

At Century 21 Carriage House all fees are discussed "up front." At Century 21 Carriage House there are no hidden fees in our "fine print," the commission is the transaction fee! And, at Century 21 Carriage House, we expect to be paid only when we do our job, only when we sell your property! Call Century 21 Carriage House when you are thinking of selling your property.

Daher's shoe stores celebrate Bazaar Days with 5,000 pairs of footwear for the entire family

Daher's and Daher's for Kids celebrate their biggest events this Friday and Saturday during the annual sidewalk Bazaar Days.

The event has grown so large we will now have a huge tent set up in the municipal parking lot next to our adult store to house over 5,000 pairs of quality footwear and accessories for the entire family.

This will be our biggest sidewalk sale ever. More merchandise than ever will be available. You will be able to choose from every conceivable type of footwear; dress, casual, sneakers, sandals and more for the entire family under one tent for your convenience.

More cashiers will be added and refreshments will be served to make this event even more enjoyable.

Daher's and Daher's for Kids will also celebrate Bazaar Days inside each store with special buys and clearance items on racks throughout our stores.

For hot summer days, Daher's has increased their sandal selection from previous years. The adult selection includes sandals from Birkenstock, Teva, Ecco, Clark, Nike, Mephisto and many more. The children's store carries sandals from Stride Rite, Teva, Nike and others.

Whatever you do, don't miss Daher's annual sidewalk sale this weekend. It's the perfect start to your summer fun.

Daher's Shoe is located at Old Andover Village on Main Street.

Now your kids can save something that won't slip through their fingers.

Our Early Investor Account is something you and your kids will both jump at.

This special, interest bearing savings account can be opened with only $10. And every time the account reaches $500, that money is automatically rolled into a higher interest Early Investor CD. While the funds in the CD earn higher interest, kids can continue to build their statement savings.

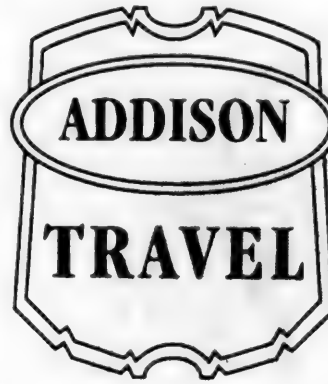

Our Early Investor Account is convenient, fun and a great way to teach kids how to save. A concept they should be able to grasp.

For information, call 1-800-2CALL-AB.

Andover Bank: Andover • Lawrence • Methuen • North Andover • Tewksbury Member FDIC/DIF
Andover Bank NH: Salem, New Hampshire Member FDIC

$10 balance in savings required to earn interest. Automatic transfer from Early Investor Savings to Early Investor Certificate of Deposit will be made on the first business day of the month into a one-year fixed rate CD.
